TRUCE TEAMS IN FATEFUL PARLEY

Sen. Taft Urges U. S. Quit U. N., Make Alliances

Ohioan Denies He Preached Far East 'Go It Alone' Policy

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) proposed today that the U. S. "disentangle" itself from the United Nations and seek a freer hand in Far Eastern policies through a non-veto military alliance with Britain, France and other allies.

This was the Senate majority leader's answer, in a formal statement, to assertions that he was advocating a "go it alone" policy in a controversial Cincinnati, O., speech last week. President Eisenhower has said this country can't go it alone.

Denies Preaching "Go It Alone"

Without mentioning Eisenhower's reaction, Taft said he never had preached "go it alone" in the Far East or any other part of the world. Instead, he said he wants to bypass the U. N. Security Council veto by a Pacific Military alliance similar to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Europe.

In an interview, Taft said he is resigned to U. N. participation in peace conference discussions that would follow a truce in Korea. But he continued to insist that an armistice under the latest Allied terms would be "unsatisfactory" since it would leave Korea divided.

The Ohioan indicated clearly, however, that he intends to go along with Eisenhower's policies and that his suggestions were aimed primarily at actions he thinks the U.S. should take if truce efforts fail.

Senator Points To NATO

In his statement, Taft stuck to his Cincinnati assertion that if there is no truce "we should forget the United Nations as far as teh further conduct of the Korean War is concerned." He contended that this was exactly what the U. S. had done in Europe in forming NATO to prevent Soviet aggression.

Taft said the U. N. had "proved itself to be a complete failure as a preventer of aggression," adding that there had been no Security Council action on Korea since July 31,1950, when the Russians temporarily absented themselves.

The Ohioan said the U. N. General Assembly "serves a very useful purpose as a town meeting of the world" but that it neve rhad any power except to discuss and make recommendations.

HANOI, Indochina, June 5 (AP)—Communist-led Vietminh soldiers partially wrecked a Catholic seminary in the southeastern sector of the Red River Delta today, killing two priests, wounding two nuns and kidnapping four other priests, a French announcement said.

Rhee Calls U. N. Truce Proposal "Unacceptable"

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The Korean Embassy issued a statement tonight quoting President Syngman Rhee of Korea as saying that the United Nations truce proposal is "unacceptable."

Rhee also threatened to continue the fight unless a Republic of Korea "counter-proposal" is accepted.

Under the counter-proposal, Rhee called for:

1. Simultaneous withdrawal of both the Communist and United Nations troops from Korea.

2. A mutual defense pact between the Republic of Korea and the United States "preceding withdrawal" of the troops.

The statement late today came as a surprise and contrasted sharply with the latest news dispatches from Korea quoting Rhee as announcing that his South Korean government must reluctantly go along with the Allied truce terms although regarding them as a "death warrant" for his country.

Truce Won't End High Tax Need, Treasury Says

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Under Secretary of the Treasury Marion B. Folsom declared today a Korean truce would make "no difference whatever" in the government's need for continued high taxes but he was sharply challenged by members of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Rep. Jenkins (R-Ohio), second ranking committee member, told the Treasury's No. 2 official that most financial leaders feel a truce in Korea would mean a five billion dollar saving to the government and "surely would have a great effect on balancing the budget."

Ike Indicated No Letup

Folsom, asserting President Eisenhower already had indicated there would be no letup in defense spending in event of a Korean truce, said he didn't see "how it would make any difference whatever."

The Treasury official appeared before the committee in support of Eisenhower's plea for a six-months extension of the excess profits tax, which now is scheduled to expire June 30.

The administration figures another six months of the tax would yield about 800 million dollars to help offset an expected 6½ billion dollar deficit next year.

Folsom, iner sharp questioning, denied that he or Secretary George Humphrey had tried to exert any improper pressure on business and industrial organizations to support the President's proposal.

Part Of Security Program

"We feel these tax proposals are an essential part of the President's program for national security and a sound dollar," Folsom said. "Even government officials have a right to speak up for what they believe is right."

He said he and Humphrey had outlined the administration's position to officials of the National Association of Manufacturers and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce in the hope that they would review their stand against continuing the profits tax.

Both organizations announced yesterday that they had reconsidered, but would not reverse their opposition.

Fireworks Blast Kills 10, Injures 75

Houston, Texas, Explosion Levels Nearby Buildings

Steel Warehouse "Just Disappears"

HOUSTON, June 5 (AP)—Spouting smoke and a ball of flame, a warehouse packed with fourth of July fireworks blew up today. The blast crushed nearby homes and apartment houses, killing at least 10 persons, Asst. Police Chief George Seber said.

At least 75 others were known injured, he reported.

The Alco Fireworks and Specialty Company's factory and corrugated steel warehouse "just disappeared" in a blossoming geyser of white smoke and fire. Nearly a block of homes and other buildings were leveled.

None Of Bodies Identified

Most of the bodies were pulled from houses and apartments. None had been identified nearly four hours after the explosion. Most were burned beyond recognition.

About 16 units of one apartment project were wrecked or badly damaged. An apartment building a block away caught fire.

The dense smoke settled in boiling clouds over the blasted area as rescuers moved in to pull out dead and injured.

Two employes of the fireworks company were in the warehouse when it erupted. They escaped injury.

Kenneth Williams, general manager, said the 40-by-60 foot building was full of fireworks of all kinds. He said a flash fire set off the blast.

"Atomic Mushroom"

"I don't know what happened," said company owner, A. M. Cohen. He was in an office across the street from the plant. The office was badly damaged, but Cohen escaped injury.

Williams was treated at a hospital for burns and cuts on his right hand, then returned to the demolished plant.

Terrific Explosion Levels Fireworks Factory

The Alco Fireworks and Specialty Company factory and warehouse at Houston, Tex., exploded yesterday, killing at least 10 people, injuring an estimated 75 and wrecking other biuldings in the immediate vicinity. The explosion could be heard several miles.

French Develop Tank Smasher

PARIS, June 5 (AP)—The French Defense Department today showed off a new pocket-size guided missile which it says is very hot and nasty.

It is meant especially to smash tanks and can be guided by a soldier with a little gadget that looks like two gear shift levers side by side.

The missile and its container weigh 30 pounds and look like an office waste basket. The thing is laid on the ground, with the nose pointed slightly upward. A fuse sends it off, like a bazooka. Thereafter the gear box takes over and a soldier controls its flight up and down and from side to side by working one or the other of the two levers.

Officers at the Puteaux Arsenal where it was shown said it could be expected to hit a moving tank target 50 per cent of the time and had a range of a mile.

It goes about two hundred miles an hour. At short ranges an operator has to get his control going pretty fast, with only a half dozen seconds in which to play. It contains a "shaped charge" that breaks through thick armor.

Woman Trapped On Trestle Escapes Death By 'Miracle'

ALTON, Ill., June 5 (AP)—A slight woman in blue jeans, trapped on a trestle, flattened herself between the rails today as a passenger train thundered over her. She escaped with nothing more than a few scratches, and still clutched the paper bag containing her lunch.

"It's a miracle—that's all," said Arthur Yordy, the stunned conductor. "I don't see how she ever got out of it alive."

Mrs. Nancy Lyles, 25, her face flushed and almost speechless with fright, was pulled from beneath the eighth car of the Gulf, Mobile and Ohio's Midnight Special, on its run from Chicago to St. Louis.

Her husband, Leroy, who also had a narrow escape, was one of the first to reach her.

H. S. Schumacher, the engineer, said there was no more than 8 inches of clearance between the tractor motors of the double-diesel locomotive and the trestle cross ties.

"She got down right flat on her stomach," Schumacher said. "She must have tucked her head between two of the ties and put her toes between others."

The engineer saw Mrs. Lyles and her husband running on the trestle near the Alton outskirts as he rounded a curve. The fireman yelled "They're not going to make it." Schumacher put on the emergency brakes as the woman stumbled and fell 50 feet from the end of the trestle "but I couldn't stop in time."

Lyles paused momentarily and then sprinted to the end of the trestle, leaping clear as the screeching locomotive rolled by.

The engineer had no idea the woman had survived. "We went back expecting to pick her up in a basket," he said. "I've heard of these things with a freight train but never with a diesel passenger."

Case Of Curious Dog Scrutinized In Justice Probe

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The case of the curious dog came under the scrutiny of House investigators today as they pressed their search for misdoing in former President Harry S. Truman's Justice Department.

A Navy officer broke the story into the open at a hearing of a House judiciary subcommittee. He said his dog did some snooping along a river bank 18 months ago and came up with a batch of letters.

Turner Smith, a former lawyer in the tax division of the Justice Department, told the congressmen the letters were his. He said he threw them away because they were useless.

The congressmen wanted to know a lot more about the letters, many of which contained names that have figured in the past in congressional investigations.

Smith said he pitched them into the Patuxent River in nearby Maryland in September of 1951.

He told the subcommittee: "There couldn't be anything in there to indicate that Turner Smith is a crook. I had no motive or thought that I was destroying something that would be damaging."

"If I had," he added, "I would have burned them."

The tale of the mongrel dog was told by Lt. (JG) Roy L. Bergeron, who said that as soon as he spotted what the dog had found, "I knew I had something bigger than I was."

The letters, he said, obviously were washed ashore by the tide.

He said he first tried to contact radio commentator Fulton Lewis, Jr., but couldn't reach him and then turned over the letters to naval intelligence. They wound up in the possession of the FBI.

Bergeron said he believed "many of the folders and papers" were not recovered. And he told of seeing one letter that "mentioned the name McGrath and Maragon."

That would refer to J. Howard McGrath, former attorney general, and John Maragon, who was jailed for perjury in an influence peddling inquiry several years ago.

Wilson Says Funds For Air Force 'Ample'

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, June 5 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, expressing surprise at controversy over the administration's military budget cut, said tonight that "funds available to the Air Force are ample to continue a rapid build-up in its effective strength."

Wilson, in a speech prepared for the Iowa State Bar Association, made no suggestion that he intended to compromise with those, including Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, who are fighting against a $5,260,000,000 cut in former President Truman's Air Force budget requests.

Today's Chuckle

A newly made widow called at the insurance company office for the money due on her late husband's policy. The manager said, "I'm very sorry, madam, to hear of your loss."

"That's just like you men," she snapped. "Always sorry when a poor woman gets a chance to make a little money."

Vandenberg Asserts Air Force Cut Would Weaken Atom Punch

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg told Congress today the proposed cut in U. S. Air Force goals would seriously weaken the nation's ability to deliver global atomic counter-attacks.

Even a truce in Korea, he said, would not justify the Eisenhower administration's proposed cutback from 143 wings to 120, particularly as it would affect the long-range strategic bomber command.

And even with a 143-wing air force, Vandenberg said, this country would still be out-numbered by Russia's Red air force. However, the U. S. Air Force would be superior or better, he said.

Disagrees With President

The four-star general, whose term as air chief of staff expires June 30, disagreed with the statement, made by President Eisenhower, that the revised Air Force program will provide adequate protection for this country's safety.

Winding up three days of testimony on Capitol Hill—and fighting every inch of the way against the administration's proposed five-billion-dollar slash in Air Force funds—Vandenberg protested that Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me) was putting him in a "very difficult" spot when she asked him:

"Can you give assurance that the revised Air Force program is adequate for our national security in view of the fact that President Eisenhower has given assurance publicly that it is?"

Question Is Rewarded

Pressed for a frank "yes or no" answer, Vandenberg suggested that Mrs. Smith reword the question, omitting any reference to Eisenhower. When she complied, Vandenberg said crisply:

"I do not believe it is adequate."

Vandenberg concluded his three-day testimony amid gathering signs of a stormy battle, mostly on partisan lines, when the issue reaches the Senate floor.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, who has led the defense of the administration's program, will give his rebuttal on Monday.

Asked about Vandenberg's testimony today, Wilson told newsmen:

"It's all right with me. I think the people will be surprised to know how close together we are."

Sabre Pilots Bag Eight Red MIGs, Crown 32nd Ace

SEOUL, Saturday, June 6 (AP)—The war raged on Friday even as peace hopes rose, and in furious sky battles U. S. Sabre pilots shot down eight Red MIGs and crowned their 32nd jet ace of the conflict.

Pilots reported they probably destroyed another MIG and damaged five more in low-level battles near the Manchurian frontier.

Fifth Air Force fighter-bombers and light bombers slammed tons of high explosives into Red front-line positions across the 155-mile battle line and destroyed 43 troop buildings near the West Coast port of Chinnampo.

On the ground, South Korean soldiers of the 15th Division fought hand to hand for hours with North Korean Reds before the Communists smashed an attempt to recapture lost Allied positions on Anchor Hill, on the Eastern Front.

At nightfall Friday, an Eighth Army officer said the Reds had consolidated their gains and held all but a small portion of the dish-shaped crest.

Maj. Vermont Garrison of Tulsa, Okla., became the 32nd U. S. jet ace of the Korean War when he sent his fifth MIG crashing into a North Korean hillside in a dogfight between four Sabres and 10 MIGs. His five confirmed MIG kills were in addition to 11 enemy planes he shot down over Europe in World War II.

William Farnum, Star Of Silent Films, Dies

HOLLYWOOD, June 5 (AP)—William Farnum, 76, star of the silent film era, died today.

Dr. Edmund Crowley said death was due to uremia. The veteran actor underwent an operation May 27 for a recurrent bladder ailment. He succumbed at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital.

Atom Spies Lose Again; Figure In Case Sentenced

NEW YORK, June 5 (AP)—William Perl, a brilliant young jet propulsion expert, was sentenced to five years in prison today for lying in the Rosenberg atom spy case.

The principals in the case, Julius Rosenberg and his wife, Ethel, lost another bid for a stay of execution during the day when the U. S. Court of Appeals refused to tamper with the June 18 death date.

Their defense lawyer, Emanuel H. Bloch, plans new legal moves, plus a possible second appeal for clemency to President Eisenhower. However, these will avail him little unless he can get a stay of sentence.

Perl, 34, is a former Columbia University physics instructor, described by his attorney as "a sort of young Einstein." He is married and has a 10-month-old son.

He was convicted on two counts of perjury May 22 for denying to a federal grand jury that he knew Rosenberg and Morton Sobell. The latter was convicted of atomic espionage conspiracy with the Rosenbergs and now is serving 30 years in Alcatraz.

Capitol "Gifts" Land Japanese In Trouble

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Capitol police took into custody today an elderly Japanese who has been leaving "gifts" in the Capitol rotunda for the "honorable government members."

Police Capt. William J. Broderick said the man identified himself as Tossy Saki, formerly of Price, Utah, and claimed to be a "descendant" of the Japanese Emperor.

Broderick said Sak visited the Capitol daily for the last three days, leaving bags and packages crammed with articles including a plastic raincoat, a claw-hammer, new shirts and sports slacks and wrist watches.

One of the wrist watches, Broderick said, bore a tag indicating it was intended for General Douglas MacArthur's son.

Through an interpreter, Saki told police the shirts were intended for Justice Tom Clark.

TV's "Cisco Kid" Has Neck Broken By Artificial Rock

VAN NUYS, Calif., June 5 (AP)—Actor Duncan Renaldo, the "Cisco Kid" of television, suffered a broken neck when struck by an artificial boulder during the filming of a rock slide scene.

Physicians in Valley Hospital said today his condition is good. He will remain hospitalized about six weeks.

Producers of the "Cisco Kid" television movie, said they have a sufficient backlog of film so there will be no interruption in the program.

Three Stratojets Set New U. S.-Britain Flight Record

FAIRFORD, England, June 5 (AP)—Three U. S. B47 Stratojets, designed to pack the A-bomb, today bettered the existing record of five hours and 38 minutes for a flight from the United States to Britain. Two made the breakfast-to-lunch crossing in 5:36; the other in 5:37.

Crews of the three swept-wing, six-jet bombers appeared surprised. They said they had no idea they were shaving the record, set by two other B47s last April 7.

"Routine," commented Cpt. Kenneth P. Kunh, 30, of Denver, Colo. "We could have done better if we had tried."

Kuhn commanded one of the planes on the nonstop 3,120-mile trip from Limestone Airbase in Maine to this wartime RAF base in Central England. His time was 5 hours, 37 minutes.

The bombers which set the new 5:36 record were commanded by Maj. Horace B. Reeves of Lamesa, Tex., and Maj. M. H. Fitchke of Ligioner, Pa. Both are in the 369th (Fightin' Bitin') Squadron.

All three planes are in the 306th Medium Bombardment Wing, which is being flown from MacDill Field, Tampa, Fla., to Fairford for 90 days of duty. Fifteen of the B47s landed here yesterday and another 15 today. The last 15 are due tomorrow.

Yesterday's and today's flights were made in 15-minute intervals and went off without a hitch. All of the planes carried dummy atom bombs to simulate battle conditions and none was stripped for speed flying.

The three record beaters averaged about 557 miles an hour. They lacked the help of the powerful tail winds which usually boost planes eastward across the Atlantic and the skies at Faiford were overcast.

Meeting Could Clear Way For Korean Peace

Optimism Runs High With Accord On POW Issue Believed Near

PANMUNJOM, Saturday, June 6 (AP)—The Communists asked and got a recess today in the crucial Kroean truce talks until 11 a. m. tomorrow (9 p. m. EST, Saturday).

The recess came after a 19-minute session.

There was no immediate announcement of what took place in the conference hut.

MUNSAN, Saturday, June 6 (AP)—Allied and Red truce teams go to Panmunjom today for a momentous meeting that could end in an accord on prisoners, opening the way for an armistice next week in the nearly three-year-old Korean War.

There was high optimism in the capitals of the Western world that a truce was near in the conflict that has cost more than 2,300,000 casualties.

The session, scheduled for 11 a.m. (9 p.m. Friday EST), will be secret at the start. But, before it ends, the two teams may disclose publicly their agreement on how to dispose of 48,500 captured Chinese and North Korean soldiers who refuse to return to Communist rule.

Many GIs Skeptical

Settlement of that issue, the last big one, could lead to an armistice in a matter of days. A high U. S. official in Tokyo said a prisoner agreement might be signed today and an armistice next week. Others saw a signing of the armistice agreement by June 25—third anniversary of the war.

Yet even with agreement on prisoners, minor differences might drag out the talks for days and even weeks.

Many U. S. soldiers on the fighting front took the latest news with a grain of salt, pointing to past reports of near agreement.

Red Terms Seen Accepted

South Korean government officials, angry at the turn the talks have taken, said the apparently impending settlement was on terms objectionable to them but they had no choice but to go along. They want no truce that leaves Korea divided.

Today's truce session followed a one-day recess asked by the Allies while U. N. policy-makers studied a counter-proposal the Reds submitted Thursday on the prisoner issue. But even before the meeting convened, reports were widespread in Washington, London, Tokyo and Seoul that the Communist offer virtually amounted to acceptance of the Allies' May 25 compromise plan except for minor objections.

Izvestia Reports Armistice Is Near

MOSCOW, Saturday, June 6 (AP)—Izvestia said today it "is clear that the sides participating in the (truce) talks at Panmunjom are extremely close to signing an agreement on an armistice in Korea."

Coe, McCarthy Clash At Probe

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Face to face with Frank Coe, Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) declared today the former $20,000-a-year secretary of the International Monetary Fund is "an extremely dangerous individual" to whom U. S. borders should be closed.

With angry references to communism and espionage, McCarthy said he would prefer to have the borders slammed shut while Coe is on the outside.

Coe flared back bitterly that this was "persecution." He said he is a good American and no espionage agent.

But he refused 51 times to answer questions whether he ever was a spy or Communist while working for the monetary fund or for the federal government. The answers, he said, might tend to incriminate him.

The announced purpose of the hearing was to pursue testimony of previous witnesses that in 1949 Coe tried to block devaluation of Austrian currency, a step described as helpful to Austria and this country but injurious to Russia. The devaluation eventually took place.

The Alco Fireworks and Specialty Company's factory and corrugated steel warehouse "just disappeared" in a blossoming geyser of white smoke and fire. Nearly a block of homes and other buildings were leveled.

None Of Bodies Identified

Most of the bodies were pulled from houses and apartments. None had been identified nearly four hours after the explosion. Most were burned beyond recognition.

About 16 units of one apartment project were wrecked or badly damaged. An apartment building a block away caught fire.

The dense smoke settled in boiling clouds over the blasted area as rescuers moved in to pull out dead and injured.

Two employes of the fireworks company were in the warehouse when it erupted. They escaped injury.

Kenneth Williams, general manager, said the 40-by-60 foot building was full of fireworks of all kinds. He said a flash fire set off the blast.

"Atomic Mushroom"

"I don't know what happened," said company owner, A. M. Cohen. He was in an office across the street from the plant. The office was badly damaged, but Cohen escaped injury.

Williams was treated at a hospital for burns and cuts on his right hand, then returned to the demolished plant.

Terrific Explosion Levels Fireworks Factory

The Alco Fireworks and Specialty Company factory and warehouse at Houston, Tex., exploded yesterday, killing at least 10 people, injuring an estimated 75 and wrecking other biuldings in the immediate vicinity. The explosion could be heard several miles.

French Develop Tank Smasher

PARIS, June 5 (AP)—The French Defense Department today showed off a new pocket-size guided missile which it says is very hot and nasty.

It is meant especially to smash tanks and can be guided by a soldier with a little gadget that looks like two gear shift levers side by side.

The missile and its container weigh 30 pounds and look like an office waste basket. The thing is laid on the ground, with the nose pointed slightly upward. A fuse sends it off, like a bazooka. Thereafter the gear box takes over and a soldier controls its flight up and down and from side to side by working one or the other of the two levers.

Officers at the Puteaux Arsenal where it was shown said it could be expected to hit a moving tank target 50 per cent of the time and had a range of a mile.

It goes about two hundred miles an hour. At short ranges an operator has to get his control going pretty fast, with only a half dozen seconds in which to play. It contains a "shaped charge" that breaks through thick armor.

Woman Trapped On Trestle Escapes Death By 'Miracle'

ALTON, Ill., June 5 (AP)—A slight woman in blue jeans, trapped on a trestle, flattened herself between the rails today as a passenger train thundered over her. She escaped with nothing more than a few scratches, and still clutched the paper bag containing her lunch.

"It's a miracle—that's all," said Arthur Yordy, the stunned conductor. "I don't see how she ever got out of it alive."

Mrs. Nancy Lyles, 25, her face flushed and almost speechless with fright, was pulled from beneath the eighth car of the Gulf, Mobile and Ohio's Midnight Special, on its run from Chicago to St. Louis.

Her husband, Leroy, who also had a narrow escape, was one of the first to reach her.

H. S. Schumacher, the engineer, said there was no more than 8 inches of clearance between the tractor motors of the double-diesel locomotive and the trestle cross ties.

"She got down right flat on her stomach," Schumacher said. "She must have tucked her head between two of the ties and put her toes between others."

The engineer saw Mrs. Lyles and her husband running on the trestle near the Alton outskirts as he rounded a curve. The fireman yelled "They're not going to make it." Schumacher put on the emergency brakes as the woman stumbled and fell 50 feet from the end of the trestle "but I couldn't stop in time."

Lyles paused momentarily and then sprinted to the end of the trestle, leaping clear as the screeching locomotive rolled by.

The engineer had no idea the woman had survived. "We went back expecting to pick her up in a basket," he said. "I've heard of these things with a freight train but never with a diesel passenger."

Case Of Curious Dog Scrutinized In Justice Probe

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The case of the curious dog came under the scrutiny of House investigators today as they pressed their search for misdoing in former President Harry S. Truman's Justice Department.

A Navy officer broke the story into the open at a hearing of a House judiciary subcommittee. He said his dog did some snooping along a river bank 18 months ago and came up with a batch of letters.

Turner Smith, a former lawyer in the tax division of the Justice Department, told the congressmen the letters were his. He said he threw them away because they were useless.

The congressmen wanted to know a lot more about the letters, many of which contained names that have figured in the past in congressional investigations.

Smith said he pitched them into the Patuxent River in nearby Maryland in September of 1951.

He told the subcommittee: "There couldn't be anything in there to indicate that Turner Smith is a crook. I had no motive or thought that I was destroying something that would be damaging."

"If I had," he added, "I would have burned them."

The tale of the mongrel dog was told by Lt. (JG) Roy L. Bergeron, who said that as soon as he spotted what the dog had found, "I knew I had something bigger than I was."

The letters, he said, obviously were washed ashore by the tide.

He said he first tried to contact radio commentator Fulton Lewis, Jr., but couldn't reach him and then turned over the letters to naval intelligence. They wound up in the possession of the FBI.

Bergeron said he believed "many of the folders and papers" were not recovered. And he told of seeing one letter that "mentioned the name McGrath and Maragon."

That would refer to J. Howard McGrath, former attorney general, and John Maragon, who was jailed for perjury in an influence peddling inquiry several years ago.

Wilson Says Funds For Air Force 'Ample'

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, June 5 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, expressing surprise at controversy over the administration's military budget cut, said tonight that "funds available to the Air Force are ample to continue a rapid build-up in its effective strength."

Wilson, in a speech prepared for the Iowa State Bar Association, made no suggestion that he intended to compromise with those, including Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, who are fighting against a $5,260,000,000 cut in former President Truman's Air Force budget requests.

Today's Chuckle

A newly made widow called at the insurance company office for the money due on her late husband's policy. The manager said, "I'm very sorry, madam, to hear of your loss."

"That's just like you men," she snapped. "Always sorry when a poor woman gets a chance to make a little money."

Vandenberg Asserts Air Force Cut Would Weaken Atom Punch

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg told Congress today the proposed cut in U. S. Air Force goals would seriously weaken the nation's ability to deliver global atomic counter-attacks.

Even a truce in Korea, he said, would not justify the Eisenhower administration's proposed cutback from 143 wings to 120, particularly as it would affect the long-range strategic bomber command.

And even with a 143-wing air force, Vandenberg said, this country would still be out-numbered by Russia's Red air force. However, the U. S. Air Force would be superior or better, he said.

Disagrees With President

The four-star general, whose term as air chief of staff expires June 30, disagreed with the statement, made by President Eisenhower, that the revised Air Force program will provide adequate protection for this country's safety.

Winding up three days of testimony on Capitol Hill—and fighting every inch of the way against the administration's proposed five-billion-dollar slash in Air Force funds—Vandenberg protested that Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me) was putting him in a "very difficult" spot when she asked him:

"Can you give assurance that the revised Air Force program is adequate for our national security in view of the fact that President Eisenhower has given assurance publicly that it is?"

Question Is Rewarded

Pressed for a frank "yes or no" answer, Vandenberg suggested that Mrs. Smith reword the question, omitting any reference to Eisenhower. When she complied, Vandenberg said crisply:

"I do not believe it is adequate."

Vandenberg concluded his three-day testimony amid gathering signs of a stormy battle, mostly on partisan lines, when the issue reaches the Senate floor.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, who has led the defense of the administration's program, will give his rebuttal on Monday.

Asked about Vandenberg's testimony today, Wilson told newsmen:

"It's all right with me. I think the people will be surprised to know how close together we are."

Sabre Pilots Bag Eight Red MIGs, Crown 32nd Ace

SEOUL, Saturday, June 6 (AP)—The war raged on Friday even as peace hopes rose, and in furious sky battles U. S. Sabre pilots shot down eight Red MIGs and crowned their 32nd jet ace of the conflict.

Pilots reported they probably destroyed another MIG and damaged five more in low-level battles near the Manchurian frontier.

Fifth Air Force fighter-bombers and light bombers slammed tons of high explosives into Red front-line positions across the 155-mile battle line and destroyed 43 troop buildings near the West Coast port of Chinnampo.

On the ground, South Korean soldiers of the 15th Division fought hand to hand for hours with North Korean Reds before the Communists smashed an attempt to recapture lost Allied positions on Anchor Hill, on the Eastern Front.

At nightfall Friday, an Eighth Army officer said the Reds had consolidated their gains and held all but a small portion of the dish-shaped crest.

Maj. Vermont Garrison of Tulsa, Okla., became the 32nd U. S. jet ace of the Korean War when he sent his fifth MIG crashing into a North Korean hillside in a dog-fight between four Sabres and 10 MIGs. His five confirmed MIG kills were in addition to 11 enemy planes he shot down over Europe in World War II.

William Farnum, Star Of Silent Films, Dies

HOLLYWOOD, June 5 (AP)—William Farnum, 76, star of the silent film era, died today.

Dr. Edmund Crowley said death was due to uremia. The veteran actor underwent an operation May 27 for a recurrent bladder ailment. He succumbed at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital.

Atom Spies Lose Again; Figure In Case Sentenced

NEW YORK, June 5 (AP)—William Perl, a brilliant young jet propulsion expert, was sentenced to five years in prison today for lying in the Rosenberg atom spy case.

The principals in the case, Julius Rosenberg and his wife, Ethel, lost another bid for a stay of execution during the day when the U. S. Court of Appeals refused to tamper with the June 18 death date.

Their defense lawyer, Emanuel H. Bloch, plans new legal moves, plus a possible second appeal for clemency to President Eisenhower. However, these will avail him little unless he can get a stay of sentence.

Perl, 34, is a former Columbia University physics instructor, described by his attorney as "a sort of young Einstein." He is married and has a 10-month-old son.

He was convicted on two counts of perjury May 22 for denying to a federal grand jury that he knew Rosenberg and Morton Sobell. The latter was convicted of atomic espionage conspiracy with the Rosenbergs and now is serving 30 years in Alcatraz.

Capitol "Gifts" Land Japanese In Trouble

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Capitol police took into custody today an elderly Japanese who has been leaving "gifts" in the Capitol rotunda for the "honorable government members."

Police Capt. William J. Broderick said the man identified himself as Tossy Saki, formerly of Price, Utah, and claimed to be a "descendant" of the Japanese Emperor.

Broderick said Sak visited the Capitol daily for the last three days, leaving bags and packages crammed with articles including a plastic raincoat, a claw-hammer, new shirts and sports slacks and wrist watches.

One of the wrist watches, Broderick said, bore a tag indicating it was intended for General Douglas MacArthur's son.

TV's "Cisco Kid" Has Neck Broken By Artificial Rock

VAN NUYS, Calif., June 5 (AP)—Actor Duncan Renaldo, the "Cisco Kid" of television, suffered a broken neck when struck by an artificial boulder during the filming of a rock slide scene.

Physicians in Valley Hospital said today his condition is good. He will remain hospitalized about six weeks.

Producers of the "Cisco Kid" television movie, said they have a sufficient backlog of film so there will be no interruption in the program.

Three Stratojets Set New U. S.-Britain Flight Record

FAIRFORD, England, June 5 (AP)—Three U. S. B47 Stratojets, designed to pack the A-bomb, today bettered the existing record of five hours and 38 minutes for a flight from the United States to Britain. Two made the breakfast-to-lunch crossing in 5:36; the other in 5:37.

Crews of the three swept-wing, six-jet bombers appeared surprised. They said they had no idea they were shaving the record, set by two other B47s last April 7.

"Routine," commented Cpt. Kenneth P. Kunh, 30, of Denver, Colo. "We could have done better if we had tried."

Kuhn commanded one of the planes on the nonstop 3,120-mile trip from Limestone Airbase in Maine to this wartime RAF base in Central England. His time was 5 hours, 37 minutes.

The bombers which set the new 5:36 record were commanded by Maj. Horace B. Reeves of Lamesa, Tex., and Maj. M. H. Fitchke of Ligioner, Pa. Both are in the 369th (Fightin' Bitin') Squadron.

All three planes are in the 306th Medium Bombardment Wing, which is being flown from MacDill Field, Tampa, Fla., to Fairford for 90 days of duty. Fifteen of the B47s landed here yesterday and another 15 today. The last 15 are due tomorrow.

Yesterday's and today's flights were made in 15-minute intervals and went off without a hitch. All of the planes carried dummy atom bombs to simulate battle conditions and none was stripped for speed flying.

The three record beaters averaged about 557 miles an hour. They lacked the help of the powerful tail winds which usually boost planes eastward across the Atlantic and the skies at Faiford were overcast.

Meeting Could Clear Way For Korean Peace

Optimism Runs High With Accord On POW Issue Believed Near

PANMUNJOM, Saturday, June 6 (AP)—The Communists asked and got a recess today in the crucial Kroean truce talks until 11 a. m. tomorrow (9 p. m. EST, Saturday).

The recess came after a 19-minute session.

There was no immediate announcement of what took place in the conference hut.

MUNSAN, Saturday, June 6 (AP)—Allied and Red truce teams go to Panmunjom today for a momentous meeting that could end in an accord on prisoners, opening the way for an armistice next week in the nearly three-year-old Korean War.

There was high optimism in the capitals of the Western world that a truce was near in the conflict that has cost more than 2,300,000 casualties.

The session, scheduled for 11 a.m. (9 p.m. Friday EST), will be secret at the start. But, before it ends, the two teams may disclose publicly their agreement on how to dispose of 48,500 captured Chinese and North Korean soldiers who refuse to return to Communist rule.

Many GIs Skeptical

Settlement of that issue, the last big one, could lead to an armistice in a matter of days. A high U. S. official in Tokyo said a prisoner agreement might be signed today and an armistice next week. Others saw a signing of the armistice agreement by June 25—third anniversary of the war.

Yet even with agreement on prisoners, minor differences might drag out the talks for days and even weeks.

Many U. S. soldiers on the fighting front took the latest news with a grain of salt, pointing to past reports of near agreement.

Red Terms Seen Accepted

South Korean government officials, angry at the turn the talks have taken, said the apparently impending settlement was on terms objectionable to them but they had no choice but to go along. They want no truce that leaves Korea divided.

Today's truce session followed a one-day recess asked by the Allies while U. N. policy-makers studied a counter-proposal the Reds submitted Thursday on the prisoner issue. But even before the meeting convened, reports were widespread in Washington, London, Tokyo and Seoul that the Communist offer virtually amounted to acceptance of the Allies' May 25 compromise plan except for minor objections.

Izvestia Reports Armistice Is Near

MOSCOW, Saturday, June 6 (AP) — Izvestia said today it "is clear that the sides participating in the (truce) talks at Panmunjom are extremely close to signing an agreement on an armistice in Korea."

Coe, McCarthy Clash At Probe

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Face to face with Frank Coe, Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) declared today the former $20,000-a-year secretary of the International Monetary Fund is "an extremely dangerous individual" to whom U. S. borders should be closed.

With angry references to communism and espionage, McCarthy said he would prefer to have the borders slammed shut while Coe is on the outside.

Coe flared back bitterly that this was "persecution." He said he is a good American and no espionage agent.

But he refused 51 times to answer questions whether he ever was a spy or Communist while working for the monetary fund or for the federal government. The answers, he said, might tend to incriminate him.

The announced purpose of the hearing was to pursue testimony of previous witnesses that in 1949 Coe tried to block devaluation of Austrian currency, a step described as helpful to Austria and this country but injurious to Russia. The devaluation eventually took place.

Kaiser-Frazer Gouging Charged By USAF Auditor

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Kaiser-Frazer attempted to charge automobile-building costs at Willow Run, Mich., to the U. S. Air Force under an airplane contract, a Senate armed services subcommittee was told today.

Sidney Solomon, the Air Force auditor stationed at Willow Run, said Kaiser-Frazer to date has made improper charges totaling more than 4¼ million dollars, including:

1. $715,631 in vacation pay, supposedly for workers building the Fairchild C119 assault transport for the Air Force. Actually, Solomon said, the workers took their vacations while they were employed in making Kaiser-Frazer automobiles, and transferred to the C119 project later.

2. $4,864 as the "Air Force share" of the cost of an open letter—published in a number of newspapers as an advertisement—from Edgar Kaiser to Sen. Bridges (R-NH), replying to criticisms of Kaiser-Frazer by Bridges. Bridges, chairman of the subcommittee now probing the Willow Run contract, today dryly called this cost item "a new wrinkle."

3. Other assorted "arbitrary charges" and non-allowable items, including $612,347 in duplicate charges, and unidentified sums for payroll taxes, interest, travel, entertainment and "dedication of the first C119."

President To Dedicate TR's Home As Shrine

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—The nation is getting a new national shrine—Theodore Roosevelt's famous Long Island home, Sagamore Hill.

President Eisenhower will dedicate it June 14 as the climax of this North Shore town's 300th anniversary.

Personal belongings, trophies from TR's famous hunts, mementos and furnishings will provide historical sidelights of the period, while the 23-room house and the 83-acre area recalls an era of ample estates that has practically vanished in modern America.

Sagamore Hill was built by Roosevelt in 1884. He died there Jan. 6, 1919.

Md. Prosecutors Seek Stricter Crime Laws

OCEAN CITY, Md., June 5 (AP)—Maryland's prosecutors prepared today to make another effort to have the legislature pass stricter laws against crime.

Many of the state's attorneys have expressed open dissatisfaction with failure of the legislature earlier this year to accept recommended changes.

Anselm Sodaro, the Baltimore prosecutor and president of the State's Attorneys Association of Maryland, asked at the annual meeting this afternoon for three more association recommendations.

Sodaro urged approval of laws providing life imprisonment for habitual offenders, life or death for attempted murder, and use of scientific tests in drunken driving trials.

Md. Acts To Halt Worm Invasion

[By The Associated Press]

Grain crops in Southern Maryland and on the Eastern Shore continued to take a beating today from army worms as government experts worked on counter measures.

The invasion by brownish-green hordes who eat their way relentlessly through crops started last week in Montgomery County. It spread to neighboring Frederick County and another force cropped up around Denton in Caroline County across Chesapeake Bay.

Dr. S. R. Dutky, a pathologist at the Agriculture Department's research center in Beltsville, held out hope for help from both nature and science.

He said he found that the worms in Montgomery County are being attacked themselves by a parasite which should kill them in a couple of weeks.

Meanwhile, he is working on a virus to use against the worms. Using the worms themselves, he is injecting them with a virus disease, grinding them up and making a dust spray.

U. S. Farm Commodity Investment Soaring

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The Agriculture Department today reported its investment in surplus farm commodities increased 70 million dollars during April to a total of $3,135,000,000.

This is about double the $1,602,000,000 investment a year ago. But it is still short of the record of about $4,300,000,000 reached shortly before the Korean War.

Included were commodities stored under price support loans to farmers and commodities taken over and bought by the department under price support operations.

Officers Press Slaying Probes

[By The Associated Press]

Police today pressed their investigation into two baffling Baltimore County murders which happened only a week apart.

There was nothing to indicate the two killings were linked.

In the first, Michael Rusin, 34-year-old sailor from Mildred, Pa., was beaten to death in a wooded section near Hyde Park last week.

The motive was apparently robbery, but the thugs who killed Rusin missed $110 secreted in his shoe.

Lt. Gilbert Deyle, one of 18 county officers working on the case, said Friday, "All leads have been checked out, and we are completely stopped at this time."

The second murder victim was John Metzger, 23-year-old former GI. His body, with a bullet through the brain, was found Thursday in underbrush off the new Baltimore-Washington Expressway about a mile outside of Baltimore.

Police believe Metzger was slain elsewhere and dragged from an automobile, possibly his own, to the spot where two Negroes discovered his body.

The Chicago White Sox's 41 spring training games include 16 against National League clubs, 10 against American, 13 against minor league opposition, and two against independent teams.

John L. Pledges Continuing War On Taft-Hartley

CHICAGO, June 5 (AP)—John L. Lewis pledged a continuing war today on the Taft-Hartley labor law which he charged has reduced him to "a second class citizen."

The hard-spoken president of the United Mine Workers told an overflow audience of Chicago business executives that labor-management tamwork is needed to meet the economic impact of a changeover to peacetime economy.

But he contended the Taft-Hartley Act was designed to wipe out labor unions when the opportunity comes — such as another depression."

"It is not possible to dream of eliminating labor unions from our economy and to think that our republic will endure," he added.

"There would be confusion and chaos if unions were eliminated. We have a free economy that can only function as ever increasing units of production find a market for that goods."

Lewis asserted he resents "the right of Taft to make me a second class citizen" and added "to put it very conservatively I expect to oppose that attitude.

That remark drew applause from members of the Executive's Club of Chicago who heard James E. Day, retiring president of the Chicago Stock Exchange introduce Lewis as "American labor's five-star general."

Methodists Told Communion Table Should Precede Conference Table

WESTMINSTER, Md., June 5 (AP)—The bishop of Methodists in the Maryland-Washington area suggested today that the "communion table should precede the conference table" if Christians are to work out baffling contemporary problems.

Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam told ministers and laymen to the Baltimore annual conference at Western Maryland College that freedom is the issue of today.

"The spirit in which Christians approach the complex and baffling problems of contemporary society is of primary importance," he said.

"Christians who meet to consider the economic life will do well to kneel in devotion before they rise for discussion.

"Men who bow in repentent spirit at the table of the Lord make themselves to confer with brothers in the spirit of the Lord. The communion table should precede the conference table because conference with our fellows will be more productive when preceded by communion with our Christ."

Such conferences will not be productive of good, Oxnam said, if Christians come with the determination to force a particular view upon others or if they allow themsleves to be impressed by oratory that appeals to prejudice.

PARIS, June 5 (INS) — French President Vincent Auriol called on former Premier Georges Bidault today to attempt to form a cabinet to replace that of Rene Mayer, who resigned 15 days ago.

Fewer "Characters" And More Character Urged By McKeldin

DENTON, Md., June 5 (AP)—Radio and television comics may be making "characters" of the younger generation, Gov. McKeldin said tonight.

Dabbling glibly in teen-age lingo, the governor spoke with distaste of "drapes" and "squares" in a commencement speech prepared for delivery at Caroline High School.

What the country needs, he asserted, is "more character and fewer 'characters'."

He feared the tendency toward developing "characters" is stronger in '53 than it was for "cards" in '23 or "cautions" in '03.

"This may be due in part to the fact that the youth of today becomes familiarly acquainted with so many characters on radio and television," he said.

Billion Mark Passed

HEIDELBERG, Germany, June 5 (AP)—The U. S. Army's offshore procurement program passed the billion dollar mark today when a $2,102,600 contract for cartridges was awarded to an Italian company, Army headquarters announced.

Included were commodities stored under price support loans to farmers and commodities taken over and bought by the department under price support operations.

Officers Press Slaying Probes

[By The Associated Press]

Police today pressed their investigation into two baffling Baltimore County murders which happened only a week apart.

There was nothing to indicate the two killings were linked.

In the first, Michael Rusin, 34-year-old sailor from Mildred, Pa., was beaten to death in a wooded section near Hyde Park last week.

The motive was apparently robbery, but the thugs who killed Rusin missed $110 secreted in his shoe.

Lt. Gilbert Deyle, one of 18 county officers working on the case, said Friday, "All leads have been checked out, and we are completely stopped at this time."

The second murder victim was John Metzger, 23-year-old former GI. His body, with a bullet through the brain, was found Thursday in underbrush off the new Baltimore-Washington Expressway about a mile outside of Baltimore.

Police believe Metzger was slain elsewhere and dragged from an automobile, possibly his own, to the spot where two Negroes discovered his body.

The Chicago White Sox's 41 spring training games include 16 against National League clubs, 10 against American, 13 against minor league opposition, and two against independent teams.

John L. Pledges Continuing War On Taft-Hartley

CHICAGO, June 5 (AP)—John L. Lewis pledged a continuing war today on the Taft-Hartley labor law which he charged has reduced him to "a second class citizen."

The hard-spoken president of the United Mine Workers told an overflow audience of Chicago business executives that labor-management tamwork is needed to meet the economic impact of a changeover to peacetime economy.

But he contended the Taft-Hartley Act was designed to wipe out labor unions when the opportunity comes — such as another depression."

"It is not possible to dream of eliminating labor unions from our economy and to think that our republic will endure," he added.

"There would be confusion and chaos if unions were eliminated. We have a free economy that can only function as ever increasing units of production find a market for that goods."

Lewis asserted he resents "the right of Taft to make me a second class citizen" and added "to put it very conservatively I expect to oppose that attitude.

That remark drew applause from members of the Executive's Club of Chicago who heard James E. Day, retiring president of the Chicago Stock Exchange introduce Lewis as "American labor's five-star general."

Methodists Told Communion Table Should Precede Conference Table

WESTMINSTER, Md., June 5 (AP)—The bishop of Methodists in the Maryland-Washington area suggested today that the "communion table should precede the conference table" if Christians are to work out baffling contemporary problems.

Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam told ministers and laymen to the Baltimore annual conference at Western Maryland College that freedom is the issue of today.

"The spirit in which Christians approach the complex and baffling problems of contemporary society is of primary importance," he said.

"Christians who meet to consider the economic life will do well to kneel in devotion before they rise for discussion.

"Men who bow in repentent spirit at the table of the Lord make themselves to confer with brothers in the spirit of the Lord. The communion table should precede the conference table because conference with our fellows will be more productive when preceded by communion with our Christ."

Such conferences will not be productive of good, Oxnam said, if Christians come with the determination to force a particular view upon others or if they allow themsleves to be impressed by oratory that appeals to prejudice.

Fewer "Characters" And More Character Urged By McKeldin

DENTON, Md., June 5 (AP)—Radio and television comics may be making "characters" of the younger generation, Gov. McKeldin said tonight.

Dabbling glibly in teen-age lingo, the governor spoke with distaste of "drapes" and "squares" in a commencement speech prepared for delivery at Caroline High School.

What the country needs, he asserted, is "more character and fewer 'characters'."

He feared the tendency toward developing "characters" is stronger in '53 than it was for "cards" in '23 or "cautions" in '03.

"This may be due in part to the fact that the youth of today becomes familiarly acquainted with so many characters on radio and television," he said.

Billion Mark Passed

HEIDELBERG, Germany, June 5 (AP)—The U. S. Army's offshore procurement program passed the billion dollar mark today when a $2,102,600 contract for cartridges was awarded to an Italian company, Army headquarters announced.

New Wooden Ships

Of the thousands of tons of major American shipping that goes down the launching ways annually, only a comparative drop is in wooden hulls. But the Navy, which long ago converted from wooden ships and iron men to steel hulls and specialists, is to a certain extent turning back the clock.

Coming off the ways in several shipyards are wooden-hulled ships which are, paradoxically, the result of new advances in modern warfare. The point, it seems, is to be as non-magnetic as possible, and wood fits the bill for this new type of hull as well as it ever did in the days before magnetism was put to work as a weapon. All this because a magnetic mine is as effective and as cheap a defensive naval weapon as you can find.

The wooden hulls being built would probably cause raised eyebrows among old shipwrights. Instead of using solid keel and rib members, these hull frames are built up of small strips, glued together, and cooked under pressure until the resulting rib is stronger than a piece of solid wood the same size. Giant presses do the shaping, and other huge machines do the cutting and fitting. The metal fasteners are of special non-magnetic metal.

Other new embellishments include diesel power plants made almost entirely of aluminum. Wherever metal is necessary, it is a special non-magnetic alloy. Despite the use of wood the completed ship is by no means cheap. The new 165 footers will cost nearly $2,000,000 each.

All this seems like a lot of trouble to circumvent a magnetic mine. But it must be remembered that non-maritime nations have, in mines, a very lethal means of fighting a war against a nation or a group of nations with an edge in naval craft. It's the same old struggle—the battle to keep offensive weapons one step ahead of defensive. To this seesaw struggle, wood appears to be lending its talents to advantage.

Baseball Case

It doesn't seem that the nine justices of the U. S. Supreme Court should find it necessary to journey out to see, say, the Washington Senators play some American League team before making a decision on whether baseball is a business or a sport.

This is only one aspect of the great American game which the court will consider. Another is whether the reserve clause, which has been called peonage and several other names over the years, actually violates the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

More than three decades ago the Supreme Court held that baseball was not interstate commerce. The mere fact that teams packed their uniforms and bat bags and traveled to another state to engage another team did not, in the court's view, place them in the same category as a railroad, for example.

The thornier question may be the "reserve clause," which has been called the backbone of organized baseball. There is nothing quite like it in other sports. Once a player signs a contract with a club he cannot play for another club unless he is "traded" or "sold" by his "owners," or, in rare instances, declared a free agent.

This rule has been challenged on several occasions, but no one has succeeded in getting the basic contract and the reserve clause system declared illegal.

Over the years the reserve clause has worked out generally to the satisfaction of all concerned—players, owners and public. Today, though, the value of the reserve clause to owners is declining. Faced with a decreasing share of the entertainment dollar, organized baseball may soon be compelled to retrench, and an item high on the list will be player salaries. Then supply and demand will take over.

Smoke And Heat

Approaching any of the great American ports from the sea, or any of the great inland cities from the air, a traveler is impressed by the immense volume of smoke and fumes these centers send skyward. The smoke from New York or Boston can be seen for miles at sea. Coming into, say, Philadelphia on an airliner on a clear day is a startling experience as the crystal clear air of the countryside suddenly is replaced by the murk of the metropolitan area.

A new theory is that these fumes, and the vast amounts of carbon dioxide released by the consumption of coal and petroleum products, has formed a great blanket around the earth's upper atmosphere. This layer, according to Dr. Gilbert N. Plass, a Johns Hopkins physicist, acts like glass in a greenhouse, apparently intensifying short wave lengths of heat radiations from the sun and preventing the escape of long wave radiations from the earth.

This phenomenon, in addition to other atmospheric changes brought about by the billions of tons of carbon dioxide in the air, is gradually raising temperatures. According to Dr. Plass' measurements, the earth's average temperature is rising 1½ degrees a century. This rate will continue to increase as consumption of coal and oil increases.

Dr. Plass' theories are a fascinating complement for the newer theories regarding the relationship of weather and the atmosphere. Some of the new studies are closely tied in with attempts by man to manufacture his own precipitation by means of cloud seeding and the release in the air of chemicals.

Operation Scrounge

"Scrounge" is a good old bit of military terminology which can—and most of the time does—have shady connotations. Scrounging entails walking or driving off with anything not nailed or bolted down.

Apparently the Army didn't give a hoot about what the word meant when it commenced a vast salvage project on the once fought-over Pacific islands in 1948. At the time, according to an article in Steelways Magazine, Secretary of Defense Johnson's defense budget didn't provide adequate sums for weapons replacement for the four occupation divisions stationed in Japan. So a vast scrounging project got under way.

Thousands of tons of rifles, howitzers, trucks, tanks, radios, jeeps and machinery were freighted from jungle-choked islands to Japan. At Tokyo and Yokohama salvage centers were set up and hundreds of Japanese civilians were trained in the arts of repair and replacement. Parts cannibalized from vehicles which were too far gone were used to rebuild the remainder.

According to statistics released by the Army, in the first 18 months of the Korean war "Operation Scrounge" provided UN forces with 84 per cent of their general purpose vehicles, 38 per cent of their artillery and 70 per cent of their infantry weapons. Today the centers are working around the clock repairing and restoring equipment shipped back to Japan direct from the Korean front.

How To Keep Well

Blurred Vision May Mean Glaucoma

One-eighth of the 260,000 blind individuals in this country have lost their sight because of glaucoma. This is ample proof that the disorder is worth knowing more about. The problem is glaucoma is not in diagnosis and treatment; it lies with the victim who fails to seek help when manifestations appear.

Glaucoma is suspected whenever vision becomes blurred or smoky or when colored halos are seen around lights at night. The same can be said when eye pain developes after attending movies, watching television, or following emotional upsets. Your sight may be saved some day by keeping these symptoms in mind.

In glaucoma, pressure within the eyeball is increased. It is not a disease in itself but is associated with a variety of eye conditions capable of producing these changes. Eye surgeons refer to glaucoma as "secondary" when the cause is known and as "primary" when it is unknown. The eyeball normally is filled with a fluid that flows in and out at a constant rate. It is believed that in glaucoma the exit is narrowed or completely obstructed so that more fluid enters than leaves, thus increasing tension.

A rapid rise in pressure leads to acute congestion with sudden diminution of vision as though sight were obscured by a fog. Aching of the eyes and the head lasts for several hours and then disappears. Sight returns but the elevated pressure leaves its mark on the sensitive retinal coating in back of the eyes. There is some loss of focusing power, hence stronger glasses are required. The cycle is repeated with the second and third attacks, which explains why those who need stronger glasses more often than they should for their age ought to have the eyeball pressure tested.

Acute glaucoma is not as common as the chronic variety. In this type, tension within the eyeball increases so gradually the eyes have a chance to adjust to the change and there may be no symptoms. Herein lies the danger of this form of the condition. Should distress ensue, it is less intense and more insidious in its development and loss of sight is gradual. These are the individuals who are likely to experience the warning signals mentioned previously. Watching television and the movies or working in dim light has a tendency to raise pressure, which produces a dull eye ache and the same happens with excitement, insomnia, worry, or during a period of indigestion. Colored halos and smoky vision also are part of the picture.

The longer pressure remains elevated, the more damage to vision. There are many drugs to lower tension but the effect is temporary. Pilocarpine, eserine, neostigmine, carbaminovlcholine, diisopropylfluorophosphate, and furmethide are among those most frequently used. But these drugs only arrest glaucoma; they do not cure. In this respect, the eye condition joins hands with such maladies as diabetes and pernicious anemia in requiring constant attention for life. But putting a few drops in the eyes periodically is a small price to pay for practical vision.

TEARING EYES

D. F. writes: My eyes water most of the time. Is there any help for this condition?

REPLY

In many instances, this abnormality can be remedied by an eye specialist. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this subject.

ALCOHOL AND PRESSURE

H. S. writes: Does drinking whisky or wine cause the blood pressure to rise?

REPLY

The effect varies with the individual. In some instances, alcoholic drinks have a tendency to lower tension. In others the reading goes up. Nothing happens in the majority, however, if an average amount is consumed.

CHEESE MOLD

G. O. writes: Does Roquefort cheese contain any medicinal properties? I feel better after I eat it.

REPLY

None, even though mention has been made of the fact that the bluish-green mold on the surface is penicillin. Now and then cheese changes the bacterial content of the intestine and if indigestion improves the individual will feel better.

PAINS AND PANGS

M. C. writes: Are hunger pangs an indication of ulcer? I have these feelings even after I eat?

REPL Y

The pains of peptic ulcer may be indistinguishable from hunger pangs. Furthermore, distress in both conditions appears when the stomach is empty and relief follows the taking of food.

WATER ON THE KNEE

Mrs. W. writes: Does housemaid's knee require surgery?

REPLY

Not always. Surgery is reserved for the knee that fails to respond to supportive bandages and rest.

Latin Americans Disappointed By New Crop Of Diplomats; Treatment Of Uruguay Shows Good Intentions Slipping; U. S. Steel Wants To Block Report

WASHINGTON — When John Foster Dulles reported to the nation by radio seven days after Eisenhower's inauguration, he promised that the new administration would not "take South America for granted."

Latin Americans hailed the statement. Foreign observers, noting the menace of Communism in neighboring Guatemala and British Guiana, hoped the new secretary of state meant what he said.

Today, five months later, the reaction of the Latin-American govments ranges from hope, skepticism, to discouragement.

Particularly they are discouraged at the poor calibre of ambassadors the Ike administration is sending them; also at the discriminatory tariff treatment slapped on Uruguay, staunchest defender of democracy in South America.

Secretary Dulles also stated shortly after taking office that he would appoint 15 top ambassadors to Latin America. So far he has picked five—chiefly heavy campaign contributors or GOP playboys. Here is the roll call:

AMBASSADOR TO BRAZIL—Groomed for this post is James Kemper, arch-isolationist leader of Chicago Tribune Republicans, head of the Lumberman's Mutual Casualty Company; insurance associate of Presidential crony George Allen; sponsor of Isolationist Commentator Upton Close. Kemper was GOP national treasurer after the Dewey debacle of 1948, never raised much money and was eased out when Guy Gabrielson became GOP national chairman. Kemper knows little about Brazil, America's closest friend in South America, owes his appointment to George Allen, Truman's White House jester who now manages Ike's farm in Pennsylvania. All in all, Brazilians are not happy.

AMBASSADOR TO MEXICO — Francis White, was assistant secretary of state for Latin America during the bitter period when U. S. Marines landed in Nicaragua. Latins still remember this, especially Mexico, the nation to which White is now accredited. After leaving the State Department, White spent 10 years as a foreign debt collector in Latin-American countries, and nobody likes a debt collector. Herbert Hoover asked that White be appointed.

AMBASSADOR TO CUBA — Good-natured Arthur Gardner, former social adviser to John Snyder, Truman's secretary of the treasury. His wife Susy, whose father incorporated old Henry Ford's auto venture and got paid in stock now worth millions, would make an excellent envoy. Arthur will work hard, accomplish little, offend no one.

AMBASSADOR TO THE DOMINICAN REPUBLIC — William T. Pheiffer, his chief qualification for the job is the fact that he is law partner to White House secretary Tom Stevens.

AMBASSADOR TO EL SALVADOR—Best of the L. A. appointees is Michael McDermott, old-school, cautious career diplomat who's been in charge of State Department press relations since the days of Frank B. Kellogg.

Tariff On Democracy

Latin Americans are sensitive people. Long considering themselves neglected because of the Marshall Plan's focus on Europe, Latins resent getting run-of-the-mill or low-grade diplomats.

They also resent the countervailing duty slapped on Uruguayan wool-tops by the administration which Dulles said would not "take South America for granted."

Last year, Sen. Joe O'Mahoney, staunch pillar of the Democratic party, begged the Truman administration to impose the same duty against Uruguay, claimed such tariff protection for Wyoming sheep-growers would mean his re-election. But Dean Acheson, wanting to protect good-neighbor trade, realizing Uruguay had a tough time preserving Democracy alongside Argentina, said no. Uruguayan wool-tops continued to enter the U. S. A. O'Mahoney was defeated.

Now, despite a program of "trade-not-aid," Dulles has permitted countervailing duties to be slapped on Uruguayan wool-tops for the first time any such duties have been imposed on Latin America.

"Let's go back," wisecrack Latin diplomats, "to the days when we were taken for granted."

Suppressed Report

The U. S. Steel Corporation has been pulling backstage wires to suppress a government report regarding last year's steel strike. So far it has succeeded.

The report refutes steel-industry propaganda that blame for the ammunition shortage and defense slowdown goes to the 1952 steel strike.

Instead, the report declares: "The strike has surprisingly little effect upon the economy as a whole. In a few industries the impact was more noticeable and in the case of motor vehicle production was very pronounced. However, contrary to many predictions, defense production was free of any serious or lasting consequences. Because of the minor

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Harried Republicans

Senator Robert A. Taft has supported President Eisenhower, in both his domestic and foreign policies, with a blind fidelity wholly unexpected in a man of his stature and independence. Other Republicans, particularly those who had supported Taft for the Presidency, were surprised and often displeased over this attitude; yet Taft's position is understandable in the nature of his personality.

Eisenhower won the nomination; therefore Taft labored for Eisenhower valiantly as though he were the candidate himself. Strictly a believer in the party system, his attitude was that the winner takes all. Since January 3, when Congress opened, he has continued to support Eisenhower without equivocation on the ground that Eisenhower is entitled to a period of acclimatization and reorganization.

Cries Against Betrayal

However, when it is evident that there is danger of a peace with Soviet Russia over Korea on the low basis of appeasement, without honor or dignity; when Taft believes that both South Korea, which has fought valiantly and suffered great losses, and Formosa, which has held on to an anti-Communist outpost in Asia, are likely to be betrayed, he had to speak out. Otherwise, he would be a man without integrity.

The speech which his son read for him in Cincinnati, because the Senator was ill, does not end his support of General Eisenhower nor does it end his efforts to achieve and maintain unity within the Republican Party. Yet, this must be said because it is true: the Republican Party, particularly in the Senate, tends toward an individualism which make party management difficult.

One reason for this is that Senators and party leaders, whether supporters of Ike or otherwise before the Convention, find that he is separated from them by too many echelons and they cannot become accustomed to some of the personalities that surround the President, too many of whom serve as a palace guard who keep him from those upon whose support he must count.

Red Tape Set-Up

Republicans who need to have business with the President cannot get accustomed to the Chief of Staff arrangement by which Sherman Adams acts as Presiden ex-officio. Nor do they quite grasp the relationship between themselves and the various committees and experts upon whom the President tends to depend even in legislative matters.

General Walter Bedell Smith, who acts as Secretary of Foreign Affairs most of the time, because John Foster Dulles travels so much, is more favorably known than most of the White House entourage. Republican Senators are neither accustomed to his crisp ways, undoubtedly normal to the Army, nor do they altogether understand why there seem to be so many foreign ministers, as it were, namely John Foster Dulles, General Smith, Allen Dulles in CIA, Harold Stassen, C. D. Jackson in the President's office. Which is the hand of Jacob and which the hand of Esau?

Also, they are shocked by the continuance of Acheson personnel in the State Department. Not only does Senator McCarthy make a point of this, but nearly all Republicans do. They realize that from telephone operators up to second and third levels in the State Department, there are confirmed New Dealers whose loyalty is toward Dean Acheson and his theories of appeasement.

It is expected that by the reconvening of Congress, after the summer holidays, much of this will be corrected. The Republicans recognize that the President has the desire to make great changes and have already received eight reorganization plans from him but they feel that facts do not reach the President until a major trouble is on his threshhold. Often it comes too late for the President to do anything about it.

GOP Fears Bermuda

The Bermuda Conference is a case in point. It was hoped among the Republicans that the President would reverse the system, introduced by Woodrow Wilson and pursued with glee by Franklin D. Roosevelt, of chasing around the world, holding secret conferences with heads of states, and reaching agreements which have nearly always proved damaging to the United States. They hoped that the President would stay in Washington and let the Secretary of State do the operational work in foreign relations.

The Bermuda Conference may turn out to be better than Yalta or Potsdam, but most Republicans fear it, particularly as they suspect the magnetic personality of Winston Churchill. Senator Taft's speech therefore represents the conseusus of Republican opinion on this subject.

Here And Now

Togetherness

One of the great architectural achievements of our childhood fancy was "The House that Jack Built." Who Jack was, where he built the house, and what has happened to it, is about as hard to answer as "Who killed Cock Robin?"

The tradition is that Mother Goose gave a housewarming party. Several zoological families were represented among the guests: the Rodentia, the Felines, the Canines, the Bovines. There was no program arranged and each attendant was free to have a good time in his own way, which proved to be a bad idea. Trouble began at once, with the rat stealing the refreshments and being liquidated by the cat. Not knowing how to have a good time together, each did independently the thing he knew best how to do, and liked, which resulted in the dog worrying the cat, and the cow horning the dog, in retaliation.

When the cow became less bellicose and more co-operative she became the stooge in a romance which was the highlight of the occasion; for it was while she was being milked that the maiden doing the milking was kissed by an eligible man who fell in love with her at first sight. Being a maiden "all forlorn," she readily acquiesced in his advances and they were married as soon as they could waken the priest to perform the ceremony.

All told, it was a hoity-toity party, which all enjoyed, except the rat who couldn't obtain a writ of habeas corpus. Of course the story is a farce and on the nursery level, but it bristles with ideas we should all be thinking about.

Life is a game, and there are many games in it. There are many players, all wanting to win. Anyone who persists in playing solitaire is shunted out and finds himself going round in circles and getting nowhere.

Being a mere pedestrian, I meet some fine people on the sidewalks. Sometimes I have the nerve to stop one who seems approachable and likable, and try to strike up an acquaintance with him. One day I met such a man, and in the pleasant chat we had I learned that he was with the E. Pluribus Unum Bank. I apologized for not having met him before, for, although I knew several bankers, at least distantly, I was not aware that another Croesus had come to town. On further inquiry, I learned that while he didn't occupy a swivel chair, and his job was not a showy one, it was respectable and fiduciary, and best of all he was proud of it. He was a VIP—the janitor.

Realistically, society is divided not horizontally, but vertically. The upper crust and the lower crust is an artificial grouping. There are only good folks, and bad ones, and in-betweens in all trades, professions, and classifications, morally speaking.

Michaelangelo once visited Raphael's studio and wrote "Amplius" under one of his unfinished drawings, meaning in our language: "Lift your sights; widen your horizons; put more verve into your artistry." If everybody would follow that advice, however humble or exalted their work, we would have a finer world.

Preachers' sermons would be arterial. Doctors would have the last word on cancer, polio and hypertension. Surgeons and nurses in the operating room with the patient suspended between life and death would sense the presence of Another.

Paragraphers, typists, compositors, proof readers, telephone operators, editors, all would have a responsible sense of togetherness.

It may be that the "House that Jack Built" has been located, after all. It may be in Indiana, near the "Little Town of Tailholt," which the Hoosier poet has immortalized in verse. It's a community, but is incorporated and puts on city airs. It has its waterworks, transportation department, public schools, town council, and all the political paraphernalia that larger municipalities have.

Its transportation facilities consist of two wheelbarrows and a pushcart jointly owned and operated by Nelson McCord and Joe Whitlock.

There are three churches, each pointing its own route to the pearly gates. Their choirs sing antiphonally, "Will there be any stars in my crown?"—"No, not one!"—and "That will be glory for me!"

The newspaper is printed weekly by the owner and the devil (cub printer to you), who gather the news from all fronts, set the type, run the Washington hand press that prints it, and turn over to Uncle Sam the finished job with papers duly folded and addressed for distribution.

Mag Clary does the community wash, such as is not done privately, but her profanity is public and scathing.

Nelson McCord is the janitor of one of the churches and he takes great pride in keeping the building spotless and in ringing the bell, which he does so rhythmically that "when he is five miles in the country and hears it ring, he knows he's not ringing it!"

On a side street in this quiet "Friendship Village" that beats true to the American tempo, there stands "the house that Jack built," presumably; and from it emerged his nibs, the ecumenical, cosmopolitan

BROTHER BARNABAS

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — All the world and a goodly section of the American press recognized in the British coronation ceremony this week a deep-seated, patriotic devotion on the part of the British people to their ancient tradition. No voices were raised here to disparage the celebration as a piece of "chauvinism" or excessive pride in the symbols of a nation.

Yet this week, when the Senate passed and sent to the House for action a bill which would forbid the display of the United Nations flag in a position superior or equal to the flag of the United States, one important newspaper hereabouts called it a "piece of chauvinism" and wondered whether the dignity and honor of the American flag came from such manifestations or from the valor of men who carried that flag on the field of battle.

This is a misconception which seems to have become widespread in certain circles in recent years in America — that it is somehow overly patriotic to show reverence for the American flag and that the United Nations is some kind of superstate to which the American people and, indeed, their troops must pay an allegiance higher than that given to the United States itself.

It crops out in many ways. Lately some American employees of the U. N. with the support of some legal opinions by U. N. doctrinaires, have taken the position that once these employees become a part of the U.N., they are no longer responsible to any national jurisdiction as citizens.

There seems to have grown up an idea, too, that the United Nations is a world government instead of a union of sovereign governments. In the Senate a proposal by Senator Bricker to amend the Federal constitution has developed a controversy as to whether agreements of a legislative character made under the treaty by which the United States entered the U.N. will supersede the laws of the United States. At one time the present secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, in a public address expressed apprehension concerning this possibility.

Many of the misunderstandings concerning the true role of the U.N. arise from an overselling of the U. N. as an instrument that supposedly enforces peace. There are people in America who think of the U. N. as a governmental structure that is over and above individual governments. But their fanaticism blindly overlooks the realistic fact that today one set of members of the U.N. is arming against another set and also that the U. N. has declared Red China an aggressor and another member of the U.N. — Soviet Russia — publicly admits sending munitions of war to help the aggressor in Korea.

The spirit of a nation, indeed the morale of its fighting army, is directly related to the reverence and devotion given to a national symbol — its flag. School children are taught in the American schools to pledge allegiance to the flag. American troops pay tribute to the flag by their daily salute at sundown. The nation's anthem is dedicated to a star-spangled banner.

What so many cynics of these times overlook is that fighting spirit is itself closely related to national spirit and that decadence in the military forces sets in and the morale of a people begins to deteriorate when the symbols of national pride no longer stir the hearts of the citizens.Just a year ago this correspondent, when in Europe, chatted one day with a high British military officer associated withNATO, and the latter expressed privately his belief that a European defense army with a single uniform would never be as soul-stirring as national divisions wearing distinctive uniforms and insignia.

It is, of course, true that the theme of Germany's song, "Deutschland Uber Alles," came under Hitler to typify an abuse of nationalism — a menace to the peace of other countries. But it will be noted that recently, when it came to choosing a national anthem, all political parties in West Germany insisted on legalizing that same song under which German troops had been called to battle before. Tradition is hard to break, if indeed it is wise to attempt for any reason to break the spirit of a people's patriotism.

The placing of the U.N. flag above the American flag, it might be contended, would be a harmless courtesy, but in the present atmosphere—where the tendency is to exalt a strange kind of "internationalism" which definitely seeks to disparage all national feelings as isolationism" or mistaken nationalism—it is not amiss to strengthen rather than weaken faith in the symbols of the United States and especially in its flag.

The Communists, to be sure, have an international ideology. Some of the French Communists say they are for "communism above all else" and above even allegiance to to the French flag. A union of free nations, whether it be in the U.N. or a military alliance like NATO, will be stronger when each component member has a truly national spirit than if regard for a nation's flag is insidiously undermined by an ideology of universalism.

New Wooden Ships

Of the thousands of tons of major American shipping that goes down the launching ways annually, only a comparative drop is in wooden hulls. But the Navy, which long ago converted from wooden ships and iron men to steel hulls and specialists, is to a certain extent turning back the clock.

Coming off the ways in several shipyards are wooden-hulled ships which are, paradoxically, the result of new advances in modern warfare. The point, it seems, is to be as non-magnetic as possible, and wood fits the bill for this new type of hull as well as it ever did in the days before magnetism was put to work as a weapon. All this because a magnetic mine is as effective and as cheap a defensive naval weapon as you can find.

The wooden hulls being built would probably cause raised eyebrows among old shipwrights. Instead of using solid keel and rib members, these hull frames are built up of small strips, glued together, and cooked under pressure until the resulting rib is stronger than a piece of solid wood the same size. Giant presses do the shaping, and other huge machines do the cutting and fitting. The metal fasteners are of special non-magnetic metal.

Other new embellishments include diesel power plants made almost entirely of aluminum. Wherever metal is necessary, it is a special non-magnetic alloy. Despite the use of wood the completed ship is by no means cheap. The new 165 footers will cost nearly $2,000,000 each.

All this seems like a lot of trouble to circumvent a magnetic mine. But it must be remembered that non-maritime nations have, in mines, a very lethal means of fighting a war against a nation or a group of nations with an edge in naval craft. It's the same old struggle—the battle to keep offensive weapons one step ahead of defensive. To this seesaw struggle, wood appears to be lending its talents to advantage.

Baseball Case

It doesn't seem that the nine justices of the U. S. Supreme Court should find it necessary to journey out to see, say, the Washington Senators play some American League team before making a decision on whether baseball is a business or a sport.

This is only one aspect of the great American game which the court will consider. Another is whether the reserve clause, which has been called peonage and several other names over the years, actually violates the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

More than three decades ago the Supreme Court held that baseball was not interstate commerce. The mere fact that teams packed their uniforms and bat bags and traveled to another state to engage another team did not, in the court's view, place them in the same category as a railroad, for example.

The thornier question may be the "reserve clause," which has been called the backbone of organized baseball. There is nothing quite like it in other sports. Once a player signs a contract with a club he cannot play for another club unless he is "traded" or "sold" by his "owners," or, in rare instances, declared a free agent.

This rule has been challenged on several occasions, but no one has succeeded in getting the basic contract and the reserve clause system declared illegal.

Over the years the reserve clause has worked out generally to the satisfaction of all concerned—players, owners and public. Today, though, the value of the reserve clause to owners is declining. Faced with a decreasing share of the entertainment dollar, organized baseball may soon be compelled to retrench, and an item high on the list will be player salaries. Then supply and demand will take over.

Smoke And Heat

Approaching any of the great American ports from the sea, or any of the great inland cities from the air, a traveler is impressed by the immense volume of smoke and fumes these centers send skyward. The smoke from New York or Boston can be seen for miles at sea. Coming into, say, Philadelphia on an airliner on a clear day is a startling experience as the crystal clear air of the countryside suddenly is replaced by the murk of the metropolitan area.

A new theory is that these fumes, and the vast amounts of carbon dioxide released by the consumption of coal and petroleum products, has formed a great blanket around the earth's upper atmosphere. This layer, according to Dr. Gilbert N. Plass, a Johns Hopkins physicist, acts like glass in a greenhouse, apparently intensifying short wave lengths of heat radiations from the sun and preventing the escape of long wave radiations from the earth.

This phenomenon, in addition to other atmospheric changes brought about by the billions of tons of carbon dioxide in the air, is gradually raising temperatures. According to Dr. Plass' measurements, the earth's average temperature is rising 1½ degrees a century. This rate will continue to increase as consumption of coal and oil increases.

Dr. Plass' theories are a fascinating complement for the newer theories regarding the relationship of weather and the atmosphere. Some of the new studies are closely tied in with attempts by man to manufacture his own precipitation by means of cloud seeding and the release in the air of chemicals.

Operation Scrounge

"Scrounge" is a good old bit of military terminology which can—and most of the time does—have shady connotations. Scrounging entails walking or driving off with anything not nailed or bolted down.

Apparently the Army didn't give a hoot about what the word meant when it commenced a vast salvage project on the once fought-over Pacific islands in 1948. At the time, according to an article in Steelways Magazine, Secretary of Defense Johnson's defense budget didn't provide adequate sums for weapons replacement for the four occupation divisions stationed in Japan. So a vast scrounging project got under way.

Thousands of tons of rifles, howitzers, trucks, tanks, radios, jeeps and machinery were freighted from jungle-choked islands to Japan. At Tokyo and Yokohama salvage centers were set up and hundreds of Japanese civilians were trained in the arts of repair and replacement. Parts cannibalized from vehicles which were too far gone were used to rebuild the remainder.

According to statistics released by the Army, in the first 18 months of the Korean war "Operation Scrounge" provided UN forces with 84 per cent of their general purpose vehicles, 38 per cent of their artillery and 70 per cent of their infantry weapons. Today the centers are working around the clock repairing and restoring equipment shipped back to Japan direct from the Korean front.

How To Keep Well

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Blurred Vision May Mean Glaucoma

One-eighth of the 260,000 blind individuals in this country have lost their sight because of glaucoma. This is ample proof that the disorder is worth knowing more about. The problem is glaucoma is not in diagnosis and treatment; it lies with the victim who fails to seek help when manifestations appear.

Glaucoma is suspected whenever vision becomes blurred or smoky or when colored halos are seen around lights at night. The same can be said when eye pain developes after attending movies, watching television, or following emotional upsets. Your sight may be saved some day by keeping these symptoms in mind.

In glaucoma, pressure within the eyeball is increased. It is not a disease in itself but is associated with a variety of eye conditions capable of producing these changes. Eye surgeons refer to glaucoma as "secondary" when the cause is known and as "primary" when it is unknown. The eyeball normally is filled with a fluid that flows in and out at a constant rate. It is believed that in glaucoma the exit is narrowed or completely obstructed so that more fluid enters than leaves, thus increasing tension.

A rapid rise in pressure leads to acute congestion with sudden diminution of vision as though sight were obscured by a fog. Aching of the eyes and the head lasts for several hours and then disappears. Sight returns but the elevated pressure leaves its mark on the sensitive retinal coating in back of the eyes. There is some loss of focusing power, hence stronger glasses are required. The cycle is repeated with the second and third attacks, which explains why those who need stronger glasses more often than they should for their age ought to have the eyeball pressure tested.

Acute glaucoma is not as common as the chronic variety. In this type, tension within the eyeball increases so gradually the eyes have a chance to adjust to the change and there may be no symptoms. Herein lies the danger of this form of the condition. Should distress ensue, it is less intense and more insidious in its development and loss of sight is gradual. These are the individuals who are likely to experience the warning signals mentioned previously. Watching television and the movies or working in dim light has a tendency to raise pressure, which produces a dull eye ache and the same happens with excitement, insomnia, worry, or during a period of indigestion. Colored halos and smoky vision also are part of the picture.

The longer pressure remains elevated, the more damage to vision. There are many drugs to lower tension but the effect is temporary. Pilocarpine, eserine, neostigmine, carbaminovlcholine, diisopropylfluorophosphate, and furmethide are among those most frequently used. But these drugs only arrest glaucoma; they do not cure. In this respect, the eye condition joins hands with such maladies as diabetes and pernicious anemia in requiring constant attention for life. But putting a few drops in the eyes periodically is a small price to pay for practical vision.

TEARING EYES

D. F. writes: My eyes water most of the time. Is there any help for this condition?

REPLY

In many instances, this abnormality can be remedied by an eye specialist. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this subject.

ALCOHOL AND PRESSURE

H. S. writes: Does drinking whisky or wine cause the blood pressure to rise?

REPLY

The effect varies with the individual. In some instances, alcoholic drinks have a tendency to lower tension. In others the reading goes up. Nothing happens in the majority, however, if an average amount is consumed.

CHEESE MOLD

G. O. writes: Does Roquefort cheese contain any medicinal properties? I feel better after I eat it.

REPLY

None, even though mention has been made of the fact that the bluish-green mold on the surface is penicillin. Now and then cheese changes the bacterial content of the intestine and if indigestion improves the individual will feel better.

PAINS AND PANGS

M. C. writes: Are hunger pangs an indication of ulcer? I have these feelings even after I eat?

REPL Y

The pains of peptic ulcer may be indistinguishable from hunger pangs. Furthermore, distress in both conditions appears when the stomach is empty and relief follows the taking of food.

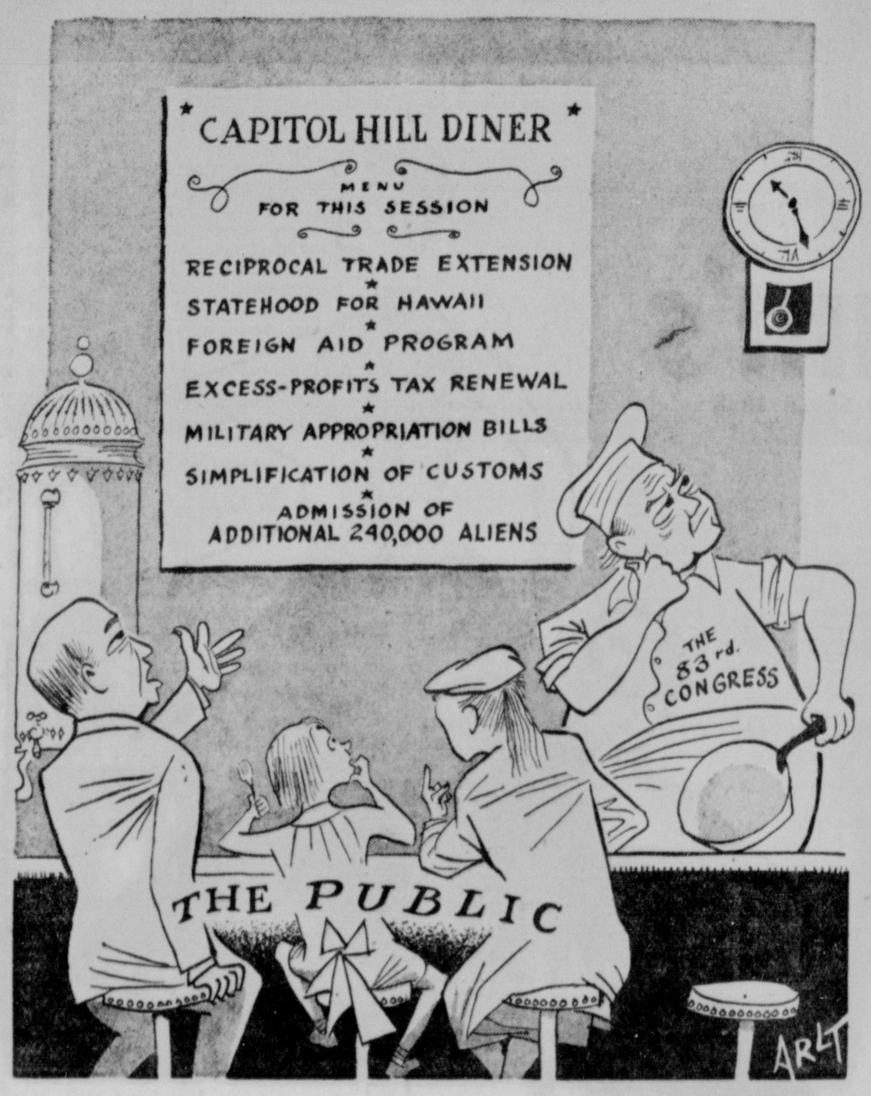

WATER ON THE KNEE

Mrs. W. writes: Does housemaid's knee require surgery?

REPLY

Not always. Surgery is reserved for the knee that fails to respond to supportive bandages and rest.

Latin Americans Disappointed By New Crop Of Diplomats; Treatment Of Uruguay Shows Good Intentions Slipping; U. S. Steel Wants To Block Report

WASHINGTON — When John Foster Dulles reported to the nation by radio seven days after Eisenhower's inauguration, he promised that the new administration would not "take South America for granted."

Latin Americans hailed the statement. Foreign observers, noting the menace of Communism in neighboring Guatemala and British Guiana, hoped the new secretary of state meant what he said.

Today, five months later, the reaction of the Latin-American govments ranges from hope, skepticism, to discouragement.

Particularly they are discouraged at the poor calibre of ambassadors the Ike administration is sending them; also at the discriminatory tariff treatment slapped on Uruguay, staunchest defender of democracy in South America.

Secretary Dulles also stated shortly after taking office that he would appoint 15 top ambassadors to Latin America. So far he has picked five—chiefly heavy campaign contributors or GOP playboys. Here is the roll call:

AMBASSADOR TO BRAZIL—Groomed for this post is James Kemper, arch-isolationist leader of Chicago Tribune Republicans, head of the Lumberman's Mutual Casualty Company; insurance associate of Presidential crony George Allen; sponsor of Isolationist Commentator Upton Close. Kemper was GOP national treasurer after the Dewey debacle of 1948, never raised much money and was eased out when Guy Gabrielson became GOP national chairman. Kemper knows little about Brazil, America's closest friend in South America, owes his appointment to George Allen, Truman's White House jester who now manages Ike's farm in Pennsylvania. All in all, Brazilians are not happy.

AMBASSADOR TO MEXICO — Francis White, was assistant secretary of state for Latin America during the bitter period when U. S. Marines landed in Nicaragua. Latins still remember this, especially Mexico, the nation to which White is now accredited. After leaving the State Department, White spent 10 years as a foreign debt collector in Latin-American countries, and nobody likes a debt collector. Herbert Hoover asked that White be appointed.

AMBASSADOR TO CUBA — Good-natured Arthur Gardner, former social adviser to John Snyder, Truman's secretary of the treasury. His wife Susy, whose father incorporated old Henry Ford's auto venture and got paid in stock now worth millions, would make an excellent envoy. Arthur will work hard, accomplish little, offend no one.

AMBASSADOR TO THE DOMINICAN REPUBLIC — William T. Pheiffer, his chief qualification for the job is the fact that he is law partner to White House secretary Tom Stevens.

AMBASSADOR TO EL SALVADOR—Best of the L. A. appointees is Michael McDermott, old-school, cautious career diplomat who's been in charge of State Department press relations since the days of Frank B. Kellogg.

Tariff On Democracy

Latin Americans are sensitive people. Long considering themselves neglected because of the Marshall Plan's focus on Europe, Latins resent getting run-of-the-mill or low-grade diplomats.

They also resent the countervailing duty slapped on Uruguayan wool-tops by the administration which Dulles said would not "take South America for granted."

Last year, Sen. Joe O'Mahoney, staunch pillar of the Democratic party, begged the Truman administration to impose the same duty against Uruguay, claimed such tariff protection for Wyoming sheep-growers would mean his re-election. But Dean Acheson, wanting to protect good-neighbor trade, realizing Uruguay had a tough time preserving Democracy alongside Argentina, said no. Uruguayan wool-tops continued to enter the U. S. A. O'Mahoney was defeated.

Now, despite a program of "trade-not-aid," Dulles has permitted countervailing duties to be slapped on Uruguayan wool-tops for the first time any such duties have been imposed on Latin America.

"Let's go back," wisecrack Latin diplomats, "to the days when we were taken for granted."

Suppressed Report

The U. S. Steel Corporation has been pulling backstage wires to suppress a government report regarding last year's steel strike. So far it has succeeded.

The report refutes steel-industry propaganda that blame for the ammunition shortage and defense slowdown goes to the 1952 steel strike.

Instead, the report declares: "The strike has surprisingly little effect upon the economy as a whole. In a few industries the impact was more noticeable and in the case of motor vehicle production was very pronounced. However, conutrary to many predictions, defense production was free of any serious or lasting consequences. Because of the minor

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Harried Republicans

Senator Robert A. Taft has supported President Eisenhower, in both his domestic and foreign policies, with a blind fidelity wholly unexpected in a man of his stature and independence. Other Republicans, particularly those who had supported Taft for the Presidency, were surprised and often displeased over this attitude; yet Taft's position is understandable in the nature of his personality.

Eisenhower won the nomination; therefore Taft labored for Eisenhower valiantly as though he were the candidate himself. Strictly a believer in the party system, his attitude was that the winner takes all. Since January 3, when Congress opened, he has continued to support Eisenhower without equivocation on the ground that Eisenhower is entitled to a period of acclimatization and reorganization.

Cries Against Betrayal

However, when it is evident that there is danger of a peace with Soviet Russia over Korea on the low basis of appeasement, without honor or dignity; when Taft believes that both South Korea, which has fought valiantly and suffered great losses, and Formosa, which has held on to an anti-Communist outpost in Asia, are likely to be betrayed, he had to speak out. Otherwise, he would be a man without integrity.

The speech which his son read for him in Cincinnati, because the Senator was ill, does not end his support of General Eisenhower nor does it end his efforts to achieve and maintain unity within the Republican Party. Yet, this must be said because it is true: the Republican Party, particularly in the Senate, tends toward an individualism which make party management difficult.

One reason for this is that Senators and party leaders, whether supporters of Ike or otherwise before the Convention, find that he is separated from them by too many echelons and they cannot become accustomed to some of the personalities that surround the President, too many of whom serve as a palace guard who keep him from those upon whose support he must count.

Red Tape Set-Up

Republicans who need to have business with the President cannot get accustomed to the Chief of Staff arrangement by which Sherman Adams acts as Presiden ex-officio. Nor do they quite grasp the relationship between themselves and the various committees and experts upon whom the President tends to depend even in legislative matters.

General Walter Bedell Smith, who acts as Secretary of Foreign Affairs most of the time, because John Foster Dulles travels so much, is more favorably known than most of the White House entourage. Republican Senators are neither accustomed to his crisp ways, undoubtedly normal to the Army, nor do they altogether understand why there seem to be so many foreign ministers, as it were, namely John Foster Dulles, General Smith, Allen Dulles in CIA, Harold Stassen, C. D. Jackson in the President's office. Which is the hand of Jacob and which the hand of Esau?

Also, they are shocked by the continuance of Acheson personnel in the State Department. Not only does Senator McCarthy make a point of this, but nearly all Republicans do. They realize that from telephone operators up to second and third levels in the State Department, there are confirmed New Dealers whose loyalty is toward Dean Acheson and his theories of appeasement.

It is expected that by the reconvening of Congress, after the summer holidays, much of this will be corrected. The Republicans recognize that the President has the desire to make great changes and have already received eight reorganization plans from him but they feel that facts do not reach the President until a major trouble is on his threshhold. Often it comes too late for the President to do anything about it.

GOP Fears Bermuda

The Bermuda Conference is a case in point. It was hoped among the Republicans that the President would reverse the system, introduced by Woodrow Wilson and pursued with glee by Franklin D. Roosevelt, of chasing around the world, holding secret conferences with heads of states, and reaching agreements which have nearly always proved damaging to the United States. They hoped that the President would stay in Washington and let the Secretary of State do the operational work in foreign relations.

The Bermuda Conference may turn out to be better than Yalta or Potsdam, but most Republicans fear it, particularly as they suspect the magnetic personality of Winston Churchill. Senator Taft's speech therefore represents the conseusus of Republican opinion on this subject.

BROTHER BARNABAS

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — All the world and a goodly section of the American press recognized in the British coronation ceremony this week a deep-seated, patriotic devotion on the part of the British people to their ancient tradition. No voices were raised here to disparage the celebration as a piece of "chauvinism" or excessive pride in the symbols of a nation.

Yet this week, when the Senate passed and sent to the House for action a bill which would forbid the display of the United Nations flag in a position superior or equal to the flag of the United States, one important newspaper hereabouts called it a "piece of chauvinism" and wondered whether the dignity and honor of the American flag came from such manifestations or from the valor of men who carried that flag on the field of battle.

This is a misconception which seems to have become widespread in certain circles in recent years in America — that it is somehow overly patriotic to show reverence for the American flag and that the United Nations is some kind of superstate to which the American people and, indeed, their troops must pay an allegiance higher than that given to the United States itself.

It crops out in many ways. Lately some American employees of the U. N. with the support of some legal opinions by U. N. doctrinaires, have taken the position that once these employees become a part of the U.N., they are no longer responsible to any national jurisdiction as citizens.

There seems to have grown up an idea, too, that the United Nations is a world government instead of a union of sovereign governments. In the Senate a proposal by Senator Bricker to amend the Federal constitution has developed a controversy as to whether agreements of a legislative character made under the treaty by which the United States entered the U.N. will supersede the laws of the United States. At one time the present secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, in a public address expressed apprehension concerning this possibility.

Many of the misunderstandings concerning the true role of the U.N. arise from an overselling of the U. N. as an instrument that supposedly enforces peace. There are people in America who think of the U. N. as a governmental structure that is over and above individual governments. But their fanaticism blindly overlooks the realistic fact that today one set of members of the U.N. is arming against another set and also that the U. N. has declared Red China an aggressor and another member of the U.N. — Soviet Russia — publicly admits sending munitions of war to help the aggressor in Korea.

The spirit of a nation, indeed the morale of its fighting army, is directly related to the reverence and devotion given to a national symbol — its flag. School children are taught in the American schools to pledge allegiance to the flag. American troops pay tribute to the flag by their daily salute at sundown. The nation's anthem is dedicated to a star-spangled banner.

What so many cynics of these times overlook is that fighting spirit is itself closely related to national spirit and that decadence in the military forces sets in and the morale of a people begins to deteriorate when the symbols of national pride no longer stir the hearts of the citizens.Just a year ago this correspondent, when in Europe, chatted one day with a high British military officer associated withNATO, and the latter expressed privately his belief that a European defense army with a single uniform would never be as soul-stirring as national divisions wearing distinctive uniforms and insignia.

It is, of course, true that the theme of Germany's song, "Deutschland Uber Alles," came under Hitler to typify an abuse of nationalism — a menace to the peace of other countries. But it will be noted that recently, when it came to choosing a national anthem, all political parties in West Germany insisted on legalizing that same song under which German troops had been called to battle before. Tradition is hard to break, if indeed it is wise to attempt for any reason to break the spirit of a people's patriotism.

The placing of the U.N. flag above the American flag, it might be contended, would be a harmless courtesy, but in the present atmosphere—where the tendency is to exalt a strange kind of "internationalism" which definitely seeks to disparage all national feelings as isolationism" or mistaken nationalism—it is not amiss to strengthen rather than weaken faith in the symbols of the United States and especially in its flag.

The Communists, to be sure, have an international ideology. Some of the French Communists say they are for "communism above all else" and above even allegiance to to the French flag. A union of free nations, whether it be in the U.N. or a military alliance like NATO, will be stronger when each component member has a truly national spirit than if regard for a nation's flag is insidiously undermined by an ideology of universalism.

Three Local Firms Are Low Bidders For Pinto Projects

Three local contractors are low bidders on projects scheduled for the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, according to Capt. A. J. Fay, USN, officer in charge of construction, Fifth Naval District, Norfolk, Va.

At the same time, during the flurry of building planned for the Hercules Powder Company installation at Pinto, another contract has been advertised for bids.

The Navy also announced that the George F. Hazelwood Company of this city has been awarded the contract to build a 100,000-gallon water tank.

The low bidders and the projects on which they bid follow:

Hazelwood Company, removal of 6,235 feet of existing fences and gates and erection of 13,667 feet of new fence and gates, and erection of 7,432 feet of poles and wire for lighting.

George Construction Company, a warehouse.

John I. Vandegrift Company, construction of 1,500 feet of bituminous concrete roadways within the plant.

The latest of a series of projects is a static test block. Bids will be received until June 23, at 11 a. m. at the District Public Works Office, headquarters, Fifth Naval District, Norfolk.

The work includes a static test block structure, approximately 28 feet wide, 50 feet long, and 15 feet high of concrete and steel construction.

There will also be a barricade approximately 33 feet wide, 100 feet long and 18 feet high of lumber, concrete and earth construction.

These projects have been advertised but bids have not been opened:

Extension to the administration building.

Extension to the machine shop.

Construction of a maintenance building and metal shop and storage structure.

Construction of a storage magazine measuring 88 feet by 24 feet.

The aggregate of these jobs provides for extensive enlargement of the facilities at the Ballistics Laboratory.

Since World War II, the Hercules installation has been one of the section's leading employment centers.

Army Worms Infest County Rural Areas

Farm Agent Reports On Combat Methods

The first infestation of army worms in Allegany county fields was reported yesterday by farmers living in the Flintstone and Murley's Branch section, according to County Farm Agent Ralph F. McHenry.

McHenry said several farmers in those areas report the army worms have infested barley crops. The barley is just about ready to be harvested, and it is hoped to save most of the crop by use of poison bait to kill the worms.

This is the first infestation of army worms in two years and the first west of Clearspring in Washington county so far this year.

The poison bait consists of either calcium arsenate or paris green mixed with bran and then wetted with water. McHenry said the mixture should be crumbly for easier distribution throughout fields.

McHenry also reported on a check yesterday of area orchards with Dr. L. O. Weaver, plant pathologist of the University of Maryland.

Apples and peaches are sizing well and at present are as big as walnuts. Both crops promise to be bumper ones.

There is some brown rot canker on peaches, but this will not be very harmful if the balance of the growing season is normal, McHenry said.

In the continuing battle against Japanese beetles, several colonies of tiphia wasps have been released in the county. The wasps are the enemies of the beetles and kill them before they can do much damage. This is the latest of a number of tiphia colonies set out in the past few years.

effects of the strike, recovery was rapid. By the end of August, recovery was almost complete."

When this report was completed by the national production authority last month, U. S. Steel got wind of it. Immediately NPA's metals and minerals chief, Bennett Chapple, began pulling strings to block it. Interesting coincidence; Chapple formerly was executive vice president of U. S. Steel, is now on loan to the government for a dollar per year.

Then another U. S. Steel man, David Austin, got into the act. He is a member of the Steel Industry Advisory Committee, a group of steel moguls who advise the government on its steel policies.

In a closed-door meeting, Austin bluntly demanded that NPA repudiate its report on the steel strike. He charged that it contained "inaccurate or misleading" statements.

What particularly disturbed him, Austin said, was that the report had been distributed to the federal archives and other government agencies.

Paul Jordan, an NPA information officer, hastily assured the steel moguls that the report had been prepared "for internal use only," that only 146 copies had been printed and that outside circulation had been stopped.

Meanwhile, the committee decided to "review" the embarrassing report before taking any final action regarding publication.

Merry-Go-Round

Col. Gordon Moore, the president's brother-in-law, is not only doing well in business these days; he's also doing well at bridge. Presidential friends say Colonel Moore is a star at lengthy White House bridge sessions ... Clayton Fritchey is trying to get the first edition of the Democrats' new pocket-sized monthly magazine — Democratic Digest — on the newsstands late in July. He's shooting for a million circulation ... the Democrats still owe almost $40,000 to Chicago firms for last year's convention. Dwight Palmer, head of General Cable, resigned as Democratic treasurer because these bills, despite money he raised, were not paid up.

Free Polio Expense Benefits Provided For Celanese Families

Celanese Corporation of America has just expanded its health insurance program for employes and their families to include a comprehensive series of polio expense benefits, R. Finley Thompson, Amcelle plant manager, announced yesterday. The entire Celanese insurance program is without cost to employes.

Polio benefits became effective May 15, 1953. All employes and dependents who were insured for hospital and surgical expense insurance on that date became insured for polio expense insurance. All other employes and their dependents will become insured for polio expense insurance at the same time they become insured for hospital and surgical expense insurance.

In a letter sent to all Celanese employes, Harold Blancke, company president, declared that, "in recent years the increase in poliomyelitis throughout the country has been of concern to all of us. The cost of care and treatment of patients suffering from this disease becomes a heavy financial burden and is of such a nature that it is not normally covered by the usual form of health insurance. Although our own group insurance would have covered certain hospital expenses of polio sickness, we have, as an expression of our desire to assist those employes and their families who might be afflicted with the disease, added polio expense benefits to our group insurance plan."

According to Mr. Thompson, Celanese employes and their dependents will receive the following polio expense benefits up to a maximum payment of $5,000 in any one case:

1. Room, board and medical care and treatment provided by a legally constituted hospital. (For any day a hospital benefit is provided under a cash sickness law or similar legislation, the polio expense benefits for that day will be reduced by the benefits provided by the law.)

2. Transportation of the patient by railroad or as a passenger on a regularly scheduled passenger flight of a commercial aircraft from the place where poliomyelitis is contracted to a legally constituted hospital equipped to provide treatment for the disease.

3. Professional ambulance service to or from a legally constituted hospital in connection with a hospital confinement which lasts for at least 18 consecutive hours.

4. Purchase or rental of necessary braces and crutches.

5. Purchase of a wheelchair, provided the patient has lost the use of both legs (maximum $100).

6. Rental of an iron lung or other similar mechanical equipment for respiratory paralysis, a wheel chair if one has not been previously purchased, or a hospital type bed.

17. Services rendered by a licensed medical doctor or osteopath, or services rendered by a physiotherapist or a licensed or registered nurse, provided the physiotherapist or nurse is not a member of the employee's family.

The overall Celanese insurance program already provided weekly accident and sick benefits, hospitalization for limited lengths of time, surgical expense reimbursement, disability, life and accidental death insurance protection in illnesses of long duration. Many of these benefits also covered Celanese employes' dependents.

Youths Sentenced In Chicken Theft

Four youths were given a hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court on charges of pilfering chickens from a coop owned by Howard Robinette, Polish Mountain.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason gave Edward Whorton and Robert Wallizer, about 18, suspended sentences of 60 days in the county jail and placed them on parole for one year, and withheld sentence on Richard Lawrence and Russel Wallizer, also about 18 years old.

The quartet was arrested Thursday morning after Robinette called State Police. Lt. W. E. O'Hara and Trooper William F. Baker, criminal investigator, found the youths in the Polish Mountain neighborhood after checking a home that had lights burning late at night.

New Zealand comprises North Island, South Island, Catham Islands and Stewart Island.

Nils Asther

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — "Whatever happened to——?" is a pretty popular question with the increased showing of ancient films on TV.

A lot of old-times are getting a kick out of seeing their old films again. Many of them would like to collect some of the loot the new film owners are getting.

Others would be just as happy if the films were burned. So would a lot of us.

Many of yesterday's stars, unfortunately, have gone on to that golden studio in the sky.

Here's what's happened to some of them:

Alice Terry (57) who was Valentino's leading lady in The Four Horsemen, lives quietly in retirement in the San Fernando Valley.

Sally O'Neill (Battle of the Sexes, The Sophomores) sells real estate in Palm Springs.

Dorothy Gish (55) and Lillian Gish (57) travel around the world and have been appearing successfully on stage and TV.

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN (68) is very busy in radio and TV. He made his fame in Ben Hur and made and lost several fortunes.

Janet Gaynor came out of retirement for a brief appearance at this year's Oscar presentations. She lives comfortably with hubby Gilbert Adrian in Beverly Hills.

Norma Shearer and Marty Arrouge travel around the world making regular visits in Hollywood.

Enid Markey, who was Tarzan's first mate in Tarzan of the Apes and Romance of Tarzan, is very successful on the New York stage in Mrs. McThing.

Katherine McDonald, the "American Beauty," is a Santa Barbara socialite.

Bessie Love (The Idle Rich, Dress Parade) has been living in England where she appears on the stage.

Corinne Griffith (Infatuation, Mademoiselle Modiste) is married to the wealthy George Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins football team. She makes news regularly with her speeches against income taxes.

Richard Barthelmess (58) the star of Broken Blossoms and Patent Leather Kid, has lived comfortably in the east but is now thinking of returning to the theater.

MAE MURRAY, the Merry Widow, is a familiar sight in popular cafes around the country where she is making personal appearances doing her famous waltz.

Anita Stewart (Wild Geese, Sisters of Eve) was Louis B. Mayer's first star. She is married and travels around the country as Mrs. Converse. They have homes in the east, west and south.

Norma Talmadge (Kiki, Camille) is very ill. She lives in San Francisco.

Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon have lived in London for many years where they have become England's favorite radio couple. Their daughter, Barbara, is now making her stage debut in New York.

Betty Blythe, the original Queen of Sheba, does hits in movies and appears in TV shows.

Theda Bara, The Vamp, is retired and married to Charles Brabin. Beverly Hills children see her each morning as they go to school and she often gives them flowers from her garden. They never dream she was once The Vamp.

MARY PICKFORD is re-living her past today as she tours the country selling bonds.

Mae Clark, whose face was pushed in by Jimmy Cagney in Public Enemy, and May MacEvoy who was Jolson's leading lady in The Jazz Singer, do small film roles and TV shows.

When Rod La Rocque and Vilma Banky married 27 years ago everyone said the wedding was done for publicity. They are still happily wed. She has been in retirement for many years. He is a very successful real estate and stock broker.

Bronco Billy Anderson, the first screen cowboy, lives in retirement at Redondo Beach.

HERBERT RAWLINSON (68) has done countless films (The Bugle Call, Wages of Conscience) as a matinee idol, is still in demand at the studios and still is a handsome, impressive actor.

Kenneth Harlan (58) who appeared in such films as Dangerous Business and Cheating Cheaters, is now an actor's agent.

Harold Lloyd (59), The Freshman, Safety Last, is reportedly the fourth wealthiest man in California. His time-consuming hobby is the taking of three-dimensional still pictures.

Old actors, like old soldiers, seem to fade away — some in the luxury they once knew, but most of them in a very different type of life.

However, "that," they would say, "is show business."

Keyser Man Gets School Tile Job

C. B. Burgess of Keyser, W. Va., with a low bid of $2,155.62, was awarded the contract to furnish and install acoustical tile in the Beall High School auditorium in Frostburg, according to Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

Joseph T. Downey, supervisor of maintenance in the county schools, said that Burgess' bid was lower than those submitted by the Hampshire Company of Baltimore and the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company. The work is expected to start shortly after schools close for the summer June 12.

Meanwhile, bids are being sought until 5 p. m. June 12 on an improvement at West Side School. Included is the furnishing and installing of acoustical tile in the school cafeteria and perforated asbestos hardboard in the cafeteria kitchen.

Downey said that bids also are being received until 5 p. m. Monday, June 15, for furnishing and installing two stoker-fired cast-iron sectional boilers as replacements for work equipment in Beall Elementary School, Frostburg.

By ARMAND ARCHERD

HOLLYWOOD — "Whatever happened to——?" is a pretty popular question with the increased showing of ancient films on TV.

A lot of old-times are getting a kick out of seeing their old films again. Many of them would like to collect some of the loot the new film owners are getting.

Others would be just as happy if the films were burned. So would a lot of us.

Many of yesterday's stars, unfortunately, have gone on to that golden studio in the sky.

Here's what's happened to some of them:

Alice Terry (57) who was Valentino's leading lady in The Four Horsemen, lives quietly in retirement in the San Fernando Valley.

Sally O'Neill (Battle of the Sexes, The Sophomores) sells real estate in Palm Springs.

Juanita Hansen is a train dispatcher for the Southern Pacific railroad.

Dorothy Gish (55) and Lillian Gish (57) travel around the world and have been appearing successfully on stage and TV.

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN (68) is very busy in radio and TV. He made his fame in Ben Hur and made and lost several fortunes.

Janet Gaynor came out of retirement for a brief appearance at this year's Oscar presentations. She lives comfortably with hubby Gilbert Adrian in Beverly Hills.

Norma Shearer and Marty Arrouge travel around the world making regular visits in Hollywood.

Enid Markey, who was Tarzan's first mate in Tarzan of the Apes and Romance of Tarzan, is very successful on the New York stage in Mrs. McThing.

Katherine McDonald, the "American Beauty," is a Santa Barbara socialite.

Bessie Love (The Idle Rich, Dress Parade) has been living in England where she appears on the stage.

Corinne Griffith (Infatuation, Mademoiselle Modiste) is married to the wealthy George Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins football team. She makes news regularly with her speeches against income taxes.

Richard Barthelmess (58) the star of Broken Blossoms and Patent Leather Kid, has lived comfortably in the east but is now thinking of returning to the theater.

MAE MURRAY, the Merry Widow, is a familiar sight in popular cafes around the country where she is making personal appearances doing her famous waltz.

Anita Stewart (Wild Geese, Sisters of Eve) was Louis B. Mayer's first star. She is married and travels around the country as Mrs. Converse. They have homes in the east, west and south.

Norma Talmadge (Kiki, Camille) is very ill. She lives in San Francisco.

Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon have lived in London for many years where they have become England's favorite radio couple. Their daughter, Barbara, is now making her stage debut in New York.

Betty Blythe, the original Queen of Sheba, does hits in movies and appears in TV shows.

Theda Bara, The Vamp, is retired and married to Charles Brabin. Beverly Hills children see her each morning as they go to school and she often gives them flowers from her garden. They never dream she was once The Vamp.

MARY PICKFORD is re-living her past today as she tours the country selling bonds.

Mae Clark, whose face was pushed in by Jimmy Cagney in Public Enemy, and May MacEvoy who was Jolson's leading lady in The Jazz Singer, do small film roles and TV shows.

When Rod La Rocque and Vilma Banky married 27 years ago everyone said the wedding was done for publicity. They are still happily wed. She has been in retirement for many years. He is a very successful real estate and stock broker.

Bronco Billy Anderson, the first screen cowboy, lives in retirement at Redondo Beach.

HERBERT RAWLINSON (68) has done countless films (The Bugle Call, Wages of Conscience) as a matinee idol, is still in demand at the studios and still is a handsome, impressive actor.

Kenneth Harlan (58) who appeared in such films as Dangerous Business and Cheating Cheaters, is now an actor's agent.

Harold Lloyd (59), The Freshman, Safety Last, is reportedly the fourth wealthiest man in California. His time-consuming hobby is the taking of three-dimensional still pictures.

Old actors, like old soldiers, seem to fade away — some in the luxury they once knew, but most of them in a very different type of life.

However, "that," they would say, "is show business."

Miss Kimble Named To PSS Position

KEYSER — Announcement has been made at Potomac State School that Miss Dolly Kimble, a graduate of this spring, will become secretary to Dean K. S. McKee June 1.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Kimble, Petersburg, Miss Kimble succeeds Mrs. Nancy Jackson, who resigned recently to accept a secretarial position with Pryne & Company, Keyser. Her husband is a student at Potomac State.

Miss Kimble, a graduate in the general secretarial course, was "Miss Catamount" of 1952.

Visit In Mt. Savage

MT. SAVAGE—Mrs. Michael Cardarelli and daughter Beatrice, Boston, Mass., are spending two weeks visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Taccino, Mt. Savage, and Mr. and Mrs. John Del Signore, Midland. Mrs. Cardarelli is the former Miss Pauline Del Signore.

Keyser Man Gets School Tile Job

C. B. Burgess of Keyser, W. Va., with a low bid of $2,155.62, was awarded the contract to furnish and install acoustical tile in the Beall High School auditorium in Frostburg, according to Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

Joseph T. Downey, supervisor of maintenance in the county schools, said that Burgess' bid was lower than those submitted by the Hampshire Company of Baltimore and the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company. The work is expected to start shortly after schools close for the summer June 12.

Meanwhile, bids are being sought until 5 p. m. June 12 on an improvement at West Side School. Included is the furnishing and installing of acoustical tile in the school cafeteria and perforated asbestos hardboard in the cafeteria kitchen.

Downey said that bids also are being received until 5 p. m. Monday, June 15, for furnishing and installing two stoker-fired cast-iron sectional boilers as replacements for work equipment in Beall Elementary School, Frostburg.

Also receiving this degree will be Kenneth Frank Gornall, this city.

Six County Men To Receive Dr. Degrees

Six Allegany countians will receive doctors' degrees and two others will be presented bachelor o. law degrees today at commencement exercises at University of Maryland.

Scheduled to get their dotcor of medicine degrees from the University's School of Medicine are Wyand Francis Doerner, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wyand F. Doerner, Sr., 14 North Johnson Street; Richard Elias Schindler, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Schindler, 322 Fayette Street, and George Overton Himmelwright, of Hedgesville, W. Va., son of Mrs. Leroy Himmelwright, Hedgesville, and the late Leroy Himmelwright, Eckhart.

Doerner, a graduate of LaSalle High School, is a World War II veteran and graduate of Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg. He is a former employe of the Times and Alleganian Company.

Schindler will receive his doctor of medicine degree — the same day as his brother, Ronald, receives his bachelor of science degree in zoology. Ronald Schindler expects to enter the university's School of Medicine next fall.

Richard Schindler entered medical school after pre-medical courses at the University. He spent two years in the Navy.

This past year he has been visiting interne at Mercy Hospital, Baltimore, where he will be a resident interne the coming year. He is a member of Phi Delta fraternity. In 1952, he married the former Miss Marion Abrams, of Baltimore.

Dr. Blane Schindler, local physisian, is an uncle of the doctor and future doctor.

The new dentists are Donald Herman Rolley, of Baltimore, a native of here and son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Rolley, 719 Patterson Avenue.

Rolley is a graduate of Allegany High School, served as an officer in infantry during World War II. For two years while attending Potomac State School, Keyser, he and his wife, Mrs. June Rolley, were in charge of the Keyser Bureau of the Times-News papers.

The other new dentist is Daniel Wertz Shupe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Shupe, Frostburg. Daniel Shupe's brother, Harry Glenn Shupe, Jr., will also receive a bachelor of laws degree from the university. Both are graduate of Beall High School, Frostburg.

Another local man, Harry Scott Swartzwelder, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Swartzwelder, Sr., Mt. Savage Road, will receive a bachelor of laws degree. He was admitted to the Maryland Bar several months ago.

Richard Smouse Fey, son of Mrs. Ruthella Fey, Union Grove Road, and George Fey, Baltimore Pike, will receive a doctor of philosophy degree.

Fey, a 1942 graduate of Fort Hill High School and World War II veteran, holds bachelor and masters degrees in chemistry from the University.

W. Va. PSC Holds Hearing On Plan For So. Branch Telephone Service

Board Approves Merger Of Two Gas Companies

Firm Is Allowed To Withdraw Schedule

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 5 (AP)—A proposal to install a $300,000 telephone system in West Virginia's eastern panhandle was heard by the Public Service Commission today, then continued to an indefinite date.

Hardy Telephone Co. Inc., a nonprofit cooperative, wants to set up the system in rural sections of Hardy County and portions of Grant, Hampshire and Pendleton.

The hearing was continued to a date which will be set after detailed technical exhibits are prepared.

Central Telephone Co. of Charlottesville, Va., which serves areas adjacent to that of Hardy Telephone, appeared today as an intervenor in the case and reserved the right to register a protest later if it wished.

Seek Federal Loan

The proposed project would include erection of about 150 miles of lines.

The cooperative plans to finance the system by assessing members and obtaining additional money needed with a 35-year loan at 2.8 per cent interest rate from the Rural Electrification Administration.

Manufacturers Light and Heat Co. was authorized by the commission today to take over the West Virginia properties of Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Co. Both firms are Columbia Gas System subsidiaries.

Gas Firms Merge

The order by PSC Chairman Homer Hanna Jr. and Commissioner Charles E. Anderson noted that Manufacturers had been given permission to acquire all C. and A. properties by earlier orders of the Federal Power Commission and actions by the public utility commissions of Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Commissioner C. E. Nethken would have denied the petition. He said the process would make regulation of the firm more difficult and service to the 16,000 C. and A. customers would be hindered.

Manufacturers now serves about 45,000 West Virginia customers in the northern and north-central portions of the state.

The combined Manufacturers operation is to adopt Cumberland's rate schedules. No money was involved in the transaction and Manufacturers will take over C. and A. debts.

In two related orders, the commission permitted Manufacturers to withdraw two proposed rate schedules.

The gas company had sought higher rates for residential and commercial customers which would bring in $1,806,000 annually in additional revenue and a rate hike for industrial customers amounting to $926,000 additional per year.

Manufacturers explained it wanted to refile the same schedules later to take advantage of a 1953 legislative act which becomes effective June 12.

At present the commission may suspend proposed rates for 120 days, then extend the suspension for six months if it has made no decision. The new statute, in effect, removes any extension of the 120-day period and requires a company to refud excess charges if rates finally approved are lower than those put into effect.

Eighth Grade Student Composes Song For Mt. Savage High Graduating Class

Despite a lengthy, early battle with rheumatic fever, a 14-year-old Mt. Savage girl is amazing friends with her unusual talent for writing music and poetry.

Her latest accomplishment is the composition of words and music of the Alma Mater song for the first graduating class of the new Mt. Savage High School.

Has Many Talents

Roberta Ann Lashley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Lashley of Mt. Savage, is also a talented pianist, organist and clarionetist. Her latest work, "Mt. Savage Alma Mater," was played and sung at the school commencement exercises this week. The lyrics of the composition follow:

"Years of time can never tarnish high school memories,
Thoughts of school days journey with us, though the school we leave.
May God bless the school we love, uphold her every aim.
May her standards and her virtues ever be the same.
Students, wish a last farewell to dear Mt. Savage High,
Like a jewel, immortal school, within us never die."

Miss Lashley began studying music at the age of five years, but her studies had to be delayed because of rheumatic fever.

However, at the early age of 14, she has been playing the piano for nine years, is assistant church organist, pianist for the Glee Club and also plays the clarionet in the high school band.

School Work Excellent

The eighth grade student, writing poetry since the age of eight, has completed over 120 poems, and has composed five songs which have been approved by her music instructor, Miss Maryln Ashbaugh.

In addition she has been on the school's honor roll for the past two years, has made straight A's in music and English, has preached three times in Mt. Savage Methodist Church, at present teaches a Sunday School Class and has dedicated her life to the ministry, hoping to be a missionary to Africa.

An only child, Miss Lashley hails from a musically talented family. Her mother, the former Miss Goldie Shaffer of Frostburg, is organist in the Methodist Church, and her uncle was the well-known "Banjo Buck", whose orchestra was not unknown to radio listeners.

School Work Excellent

The eighth grade student, writing poetry since the age of eight, has completed over 120 poems, and has composed five songs which have been approved by her music instructor, Miss Maryln Ashbaugh.

In addition she has been on the school's honor roll for the past two years, has made straight A's in music and English, has preached three times in Mt. Savage Methodist Church, at present teaches a Sunday School Class and has dedicated her life to the ministry, hoping to be a missionary to Africa.

An only child, Miss Lashley hails from a musically talented family. Her mother, the former Miss Goldie Shaffer of Frostburg, is organist in the Methodist Church, and her uncle was the well-known "Banjo Buck", whose orchestra was not unknown to radio listeners.

Mt. Savage High Upsets Hyndman, 8 To 4

Beall Victory Would Tie Up Bi-State Race

Plays Central Today; Blank Defeats Hite; Brodie Whips Bruce

Coach John Thomas' Mt. Savage High School tossers upset Hyndman High School yesterday at Mt. Savage by the score of 8-4, thereby cheating the Pennsylvanians out of a chance to sew up the Bi-State League championship.

The outcome of yesterday's game means that Beall will play Central of Lonaconing today at 2 p. m. in Barton and if the Frostburg nine is victorious the race will end in a tie, thus necessitating a playoff game between Beall and Hyndman for the title.

Hyndman's record is now 12-4 while Beall has won 11 and lost four.

Beall has won the championship for the past three seasons. Hyndman defeated Beall in a playoff game for the title in 1949 after the race ended in a tie.

Five-Run Rally Decides

A five-run rally in the fifth inning decided yesterday's contest at Mt. Savage. During the big explosion that saw Lefty Lou Hite, Hyndman's ace, driven to cover, Mt. Savage coupled singles by Gene Kenny, Tommy Lewis, Dick Walters, "Chink" Walsh and Jim Michaels with a walk and fielder's choice for the five runs after the victors had taken a 4-3 lead. Kelly replaced Hite on the rubber after five runs had crossed the platter and forced Blank to ground out to end the inning.

Bobby Blank went the route for Mt. Savage, limiting Hyndman to six hits while fanning seven and issuing four passes. It was Blank's fifth win against four setbacks. Hite has won 10 and lost three. The Hyndman leftie collected three of his team's hits while Walters had two of Mt. Savage's seven blows.

Andrews Breaks Up Game

Bill Andrews' two-run single in the sixth inning broke a 1-1 deadlock and gave Central High School a 3-1 decision over Bruce High yesterday at Barton.

Hits by Woods and Kiddy and a fielder's choice preceded Andrews' winning wallop.

Jack Brodie let the Westernport team down with three singles and struck out 13 batsmen to run his total to an even 100 in 13 games. He has won six and lost five.

Thompson and Turnbull shared four of the Orange and Black's eight bingles. Dave Marple suffered his seventh loss. He has won four games. The boxes:

WINNER OF BABST AWARD—The oldest of the athletic awards in Allegany county, offered by Charles E. Babst, former Cumberlander, now of New York, went to James (Jim) Hoffman, junior, at the Allegany High School graduation exercises last night. Hoffman has excelled in football, baseball and basketball at AHS and he received a gold wrist watch for his stellar performances. He is the 29th winner of the Babst Award which was instituted in 1925. Raymond O. McCullough, principal, is shown congratulating Hoffman.

James Hoffman Wins 29th Babst Award At Allegany

Wrist Watch Goes To Junior Athlete

James (Jim) Hoffman, Allegany High School junior, is the winner of the twenty-ninth Babst Award, offered annually since 1925 to the Blue and White's outstanding student-athlete.

Hoffman received a gold wrist watch at commencement exercises last night at Allegany High School.

The donor of the award is Charles E. Babst, a graduate of Allegany County High School in the days when the school was located on Greene Street. Babst is employed by the New York office of the Celanese Corporation of America.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Hoffman, 811 Elmwood Lane, "Jim" was a three sports star at Allegany during the past year. He quarterbacked Coach Roy Lester's grid team, played a forward position on Allegany's W.M.I. League championship basketball team and was the regular third sacker on the baseball aggregation, finishing the Bi-State Conference campaign with a .333 batting average in 13 contests. He's a product of the Central YMCA Sunday School Basketball League, having played with St. Luke's Lutheran quint.

1952—Bruce Price. 1951—Ronnie Sisk. 1950—Blaine Morton. 1949—John Vernall. 1948—Earl Bruce. 1947—Noyes Thompson Powers. 1946—James H. Fairgo Races Open Week From Today; 200 Horses Here

Two hundred thoroughbreds are already stabled at the Cumberland Fair Grounds awaiting the opening of the 29th annual race meeting of the Cumberland Fair Association which gets under way at 2 p. m., Saturday, June 13—just one week from today.

Announcement to this effect was made last night by Lando (Sixty) Bressan, right hand man of Racing Secretary J. Fred Colwill, who assigns stall room to the various stables at the local half miler.

Bressan stated that many of the thoroughbreds now quartered here raced at Pimlico's recent meeting and at other eastern mile tracks.

The largest string on hand (13) is trained by Mrs. G. A. "Babe" Saportas, of Monkton, Md., who has led the winning trainers here several times in past years. Trainers with topnotch stables also coming here for the 10-day session which closes Wednesday, June 24, include Gordon Pearce, Bill Thomas and John Hancock.

Wengerd Replaces Kurtz As Manager At Grantsville

Logan Wengard is the new manager of the Grantsville Sluggers of the Bi-State Baseball League, replacing Robert Kurtz, it was announced last night by Carl "Pete" Dicken, league secretary.

The Sluggers have signed four new players, namely, Donald Wengerd, James Ayers, John Georg and Donald Ringer and released nine as follows: Kenneth Lowery, Donald Carey, Gene Keyes, William Blocher, William Tucker, Bradley Bryner, Robert Kurtz, Randall Bryner and Phil Mauretta.

Mt. Savage has signed Melvin Nee and released George Schoenadel. Frostburg has added Robert Beck to its roster while the McCoole Vets have signed Thomas J. Clark, Jr., Paul McKenzie, Jack Meyers and Jesse Campbell.

Thirty To Vie In Epsom Race

Aureole And Pinza Today's Favorites

EPSOM, England, June 5 (AP)—Aureole, a speedy chestnut colt owned by Queen Elizabeth II, and Pinza, a brown colt ridden by king of jockeys Sir Gordon Richards, will go to the post tomorrow co-favorites in the Epsom Derby.

Because of these fine three-year-olds and the 27 other horses in the unusually strong field, the Epsom Derby is billed as one of history's most promising. The race at Epsom Downs will be the 174th running. The distance is a mile and one half.

Final callover odds of 5-1 were set against Aureole and Pinza tonight at the Victoria Club in London. They represent a shift from 9-2 against Pinza and 22-1 against Aureole.

At least 250,000 are expected on the Downs of South East England, just past the outskirts of London, for the race starting at 9:30 a.m., EST.

Wilson's Homer Nets Cresaptown Softball Crown

Dick Wilson blasted a home run in the last of the 8th to give Cresaptown Methodist a 4-3 decision over Calvary Methodist yesterday at Community Park.

The victory gave Cresaptown the championship of the Central YMCA Sunday School Softball League for the 1953 season, their third in as many years.

Crosby And Ward Lose In France

CHANTILLY, France, June 5 (AP)—Crooner Bing Crosby and Harvie Ward, of Atlanta, Ga., were knocked out of the French amateur golf championship today.

Crosby was eliminated in the morning third round by Leonard Crawley, 49-year-old former British Walker Cup player, 7 and 5.

Ward, former British amateur champion, lost in a startling fourth round upset to Maj. John M. Anderson, 38-year-old manager of the Airforce Officers' Club at Wiesbaden, Germany and a native of Ottumwa, Iowa. The score was 2 and 1.

Changes Prohibited During Playing Season

CINCINNATI, June 5 (AP)—Warren Giles, president of the National League, ruled today the Pittsburgh Pirates can't lengthen the distance from home plate and the left field fence at Forbes Field this year.

The club began removing the fence shortly after it traded slugger Ralph Kiner—a righthanded batter and left field hitter—to the Chicago Cubs in a 10-player deal.

The distance to the fence originally was 365 feet, but was shortened to 335 feet in 1947 for the benefit of the long-ball hitting outfielder and Hank Greenberg, another righthanded swinger, then with the club.

Giles said he discovered in the minutes of a league meeting a provision prohibiting changes in ball parks during the playing season.

Mt. Savage High Upsets Hyndman, 8 To 4

Beall Victory Would Tie Up Bi-State Race

Plays Central Today; Blank Defeats Hite; Brodie Whips Bruce

Coach John Thomas' Mt. Savage High School tossers upset Hyndman High School yesterday at Mt. Savage by the score of 8-4, thereby cheating the Pennsylvanians out of a chance to sew up the Bi-State League championship.

The outcome of yesterday's game means that Beall will play Central of Lonaconing today at 2 p. m. in Barton and if the Frostburg nine is victorious the race will end in a tie, thus necessitating a playoff game between Beall and Hyndman for the title.

Hyndman's record is now 12-4 while Beall has won 11 and lost four.

Beall has won the championship for the past three seasons. Hyndman defeated Beall in a playoff game for the title in 1949 after the race ended in a tie.

Five-Run Rally Decides

A five-run rally in the fifth inning decided yesterday's contest at Mt. Savage. During the big explosion that saw Lefty Lou Hite, Hyndman's ace, driven to cover, Mt. Savage coupled singles by Gene Kenny, Tommy Lewis, Dick Walters, "Chink" Walsh and Jim Michaels with a walk and fielder's choice for the five runs after the victors had taken a 4-3 lead. Kelly replaced Hite on the rubber after five runs had crossed the platter and forced Blank to ground out to end the inning.

Bobby Blank went the route for Mt. Savage, limiting Hyndman to six hits while fanning seven and issuing four passes. It was Blank's fifth win against four setbacks. Hite has won 10 and lost three. The Hyndman leftie collected three of his team's hits while Walters had two of Mt. Savage's seven blows.

Andrews Breaks Up Game

Bill Andrews' two-run single in the sixth inning broke a 1-1 deadlock and gave Central High School a 3-1 decision over Bruce High yesterday at Barton.

Hits by Woods and Kiddy and a fielder's choice preceded Andrews' winning wallop.

Jack Brodie let the Westernport team down with three singles and struck out 13 batsmen to run his total to an even 100 in 13 games. He has won six and lost five.

Thompson and Turnbull shared four of the Orange and Black's eight bingles. Dave Marple suffered his seventh loss. He has won four games. The boxes:

Bill Tilden Dies

HOLLYWOOD, June 5 (AP) — William Tatum Tilden, II, 60, former world tennis champion, died late today in his Hollywood apartment. Death apparently was caused by a heart attack.

To Play Sunday

Schute's Roofers will play Wiley Ford Sunday at 3:30 p. m. at Fort Hill field.

Returning stars of West Virginia's 1953 football squad are 195-pound southpaw quarterback Freddy Wyant, acclaimed college football's Freshman-of-the-Year last season, and 230-pound tackle Ben Dunkerley, second-team All-American.

WINNER OF BABST AWARD—The oldest of the athletic awards in Allegany county, offered by Charles E. Babst, former Cumberlander, now of New York, went to James (Jim) Hoffman, junior, at the Allegany High School graduation exercises last night. Hoffman has excelled in football, baseball and basketball at AHS and he received a gold wrist watch for his stellar performances. He is the 29th winner of the Babst Award which was instituted in 1925. Raymond O. McCullough, principal, is shown congratulating Hoffman.

James Hoffman Wins 29th Babst Award At Allegany

Wrist Watch Goes To Junior Athlete

James (Jim) Hoffman, Allegany High School junior, is the winner of the twenty-ninth Babst Award, offered annually since 1925 to the Blue and White's outstanding student-athlete.

Hoffman received a gold wrist watch at commencement exercises last night at Allegany High School.

The donor of the award is Charles E. Babst, a graduate of Allegany County High School in the days when the school was located on Greene Street. Babst is employed by the New York office of the Celanese Corporation of America.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Hoffman, 811 Elmwood Lane, "Jim" was a three sports star at Allegany during the past year. He quarterbacked Coach Roy Lester's grid team, played a forward position on Allegany's W.M.I. League championship basketball team and was the regular third sacker on the baseball aggregation, finishing the Bi-State Conference campaign with a .333 batting average in 13 contests. He's a product of the Central YMCA Sunday School Basketball League, having played with St. Luke's Lutheran quint.

1952—Bruce Price. 1951—Ronnie Sisk. 1950—Blaine Morton. 1949—John Vernall. 1948—Earl Bruce. 1947—Noyes Thompson Powers. 1946—James H. Fairgo Races Open Week From Today; 200 Horses Here

Two hundred thoroughbreds are already stabled at the Cumberland Fair Grounds awaiting the opening of the 29th annual race meeting of the Cumberland Fair Association which gets under way at 2 p. m., Saturday, June 13—just one week from today.

Announcement to this effect was made last night by Lando (Sixty) Bressan, right hand man of Racing Secretary J. Fred Colwill, who assigns stall room to the various stables at the local half miler.

Bressan stated that many of the thoroughbreds now quartered here raced at Pimlico's recent meeting and at other eastern mile tracks.

The largest string on hand (13) is trained by Mrs. G. A. "Babe" Saportas, of Monkton, Md., who has led the winning trainers here several times in past years. Trainers with topnotch stables also coming here for the 10-day session which closes Wednesday, June 24, include Gordon Pearce, Bill Thomas and John Hancock.

Logan Wengard is the new manager of the Grantsville Sluggers of the Bi-State Baseball League, replacing Robert Kurtz, it was announced last night by Carl "Pete" Dicken, league secretary.

The Sluggers have signed four new players, namely, Donald Wengerd, James Ayers, John Georg and Donald Ringer and released nine as follows: Kenneth Lowery, Donald Carey, Gene Keyes, William Blocher, William Tucker, Bradley Bryner, Robert Kurtz, Randall Bryner and Phil Mauretta.

Mt. Savage has signed Melvin Nee and released George Schoenadel. Frostburg has added Robert Beck to its roster while the McCoole Vets have signed Thomas J. Clark, Jr., Paul McKenzie, Jack Meyers and Jesse Campbell.

Thirty To Vie In Epsom Race

Aureole And Pinza Today's Favorites

EPSOM, England, June 5 (AP)—Aureole, a speedy chestnut colt owned by Queen Elizabeth II, and Pinza, a brown colt ridden by king of jockeys Sir Gordon Richards, will go to the post tomorrow co-favorites in the Epsom Derby.

Because of these fine three-year-olds and the 27 other horses in the unusually strong field, the Epsom Derby is billed as one of history's most promising. The race at Epsom Downs will be the 174th running. The distance is a mile and one half.

Final callover odds of 5-1 were set against Aureole and Pinza tonight at the Victoria Club in London. They represent a shift from 9-2 against Pinza and 22-1 against Aureole.

At least 250,000 are expected on the Downs of South East England, just past the outskirts of London, for the race starting at 9:30 a.m., EST.

Wilson's Homer Nets Cresaptown Softball Crown

Dick Wilson blasted a home run in the last of the 8th to give Cresaptown Methodist a 4-3 decision over Calvary Methodist yesterday at Community Park.

The victory gave Cresaptown the championship of the Central YMCA Sunday School Softball League for the 1953 season, their third in as many years.

Crosby And Ward Lose In France

CHANTILLY, France, June 5 (AP)—Crooner Bing Crosby and Harvie Ward, of Atlanta, Ga., were knocked out of the French amateur golf championship today.

Crosby was eliminated in the morning third round by Leonard Crawley, 49-year-old former British Walker Cup player, 7 and 5.

Ward, former British amateur champion, lost in a startling fourth round upset to Maj. John M. Anderson, 38-year-old manager of the Airforce Officers' Club at Wiesbaden, Germany and a native of Ottumwa, Iowa. The score was 2 and 1.

Changes Prohibited During Playing Season

CINCINNATI, June 5 (AP)—Warren Giles, president of the National League, ruled today the Pittsburgh Pirates can't lengthen the distance from home plate and the left field fence at Forbes Field this year.

The club began removing the fence shortly after it traded slugger Ralph Kiner—a righthanded batter and left field hitter—to the Chicago Cubs in a 10-player deal.

The distance to the fence originally was 365 feet, but was shortened to 335 feet in 1947 for the benefit of the long-ball hitting outfielder and Hank Greenberg, another righthanded swinger, then with the club.

Giles said he discovered in the minutes of a league meeting a provision prohibiting changes in ball parks during the playing season.

TO INSURE PUBLICATION in Saturday's paper, all church notices must be in The Cumberland News office by 11 o'clock each Thursday night.

THE FOURTH "R"

Some American pioneers believed that the limit of education was the teaching of "readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic." How far education has gone beyond that crude idea!

It has dared so many spectacular things that unless Man's spiritual progress keeps pace with his scientific achievements, the results may destroy him.

What we need most today is education in the most important "R" of all—Religion.

Here is where the Church—through its Sunday Schools and Vacation Church Schools—steps in to help save civilization from itself. We must strengthen the fourth "R" or the other three will mean nothing.

Unless education is made to include the knowledge and the use of moral and spiritual facts, all the rest will be in vain.

If you are not interested in the Church and its educational program, think of it in terms of what it can do for your children. Think of it in terms of insurance against what must be a black future for us all if the higher values are neglected.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE FOURTH "R"

Some American pioneers believed that the limit of education was the teaching of "readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic." How far education has gone beyond that crude idea!

It has dared so many spectacular things that unless Man's spiritual progress keeps pace with his scientific achievements, the results may destroy him.

What we need most today is education in the most important "R" of all—Religion.

Here is where the Church—through its Sunday Schools and Vacation Church Schools—steps in to help save civilization from itself. We must strengthen the fourth "R" or the other three will mean nothing.

Unless education is made to include the knowledge and the use of moral and spiritual facts, all the rest will be in vain.

If you are not interested in the Church and its educational program, think of it in terms of what it can do for your children. Think of it in terms of insurance against what must be a black future for us all if the higher values are neglected.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Three Tucker County Towns Elect Officers

M. J. Sponaugle Is Davis Mayor

PARSONS, W. Va.—Citizens of three Tucker County communities, Davis, Hendricks and Hambleton, went to the polls Tuesday to elect officials.

The elections were marked by an unusually heavy vote in Davis and by ties in one council position each in Davis and Hambleton.

The tie was settled in Davis when the two candidates cast lots for the post. No action has been taken to break the tie in Hendricks.

Elected mayor of Davis was M. J. Sponaugle, running as an independent, with 138 votes. Trailing were Stanley Orndorff, Citizens ticket, 128, and Harry Helmick, Peoples Ticket, 49 votes.

Lester Hinkle won the post of recorder with 299 votes, with support from all three tickets.

Winning councilmen were Omer Hinkle, with a total of 273 votes on the three tickets; Robert Raese, with 191 total from the People's and Independent tickets; Brady Harr had 160 votes; Howard Wise had 152 votes. Both men were new candidates for the offices.

Frank Tekavec and Belmont S. Cleaver, incumbent, tied with 141 votes each. Tekavec won the right as councilman by casting a lot and winning.

The only councilmen not elected on the Independent ticket was Norman Phelps, who received 134 votes. Tony Zalatoris, People's ticket, received 67 votes; Gilbert P. Smith, Citizen's ticket received 130; B. S. Cleaver, 141 and H. A. Meyers, the outgoing mayor 128 votes.

Complete but unofficial results follow:

Gilbert P. Smith	130
B. S. Cleaver	141
H. A. Meyers	128

A total of 324 residents of Davis voted Tuesday to make a history of interest in the city election.

Two years ago only 57 residents voted. The Davis council will meet on Wednesday Evening, June 10, when new city officials will receive their oath of office.

J. B. Ambrose was elected mayor of Hendricks Tuesday as 23 residents went to the polls.

Miss Mildred Wilson was named town recorder.

Elected to council seats were Mrs. Ford Fink, Wilbur Plauger, Lark Wilfong and C. W. Harvey.

Tied for the fifth council post were J. A. Butcher, who was seeking reelection, and Thomas B. Hedrick, who received the same number of votes through write-ins.

Town officials have not yet determined who shall fill the post.

Only 23 residents of Hambleton went to the polls to cast their vote for the one party ticket, all of whom were running for re-election.

Clark Reelected Moorefield Mayor Without Contest

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—P. W. Clarke was elected Mayor of Moorefield with 142 complimentary votes in the municipal election Tuesday. Clarke was unopposed for re-election and Mrs. Robert Baker, Recorder, also unopposed, received 147 votes.

Only six names were on the ticket for town council, with five elected. Theodore Burns, Raymond Sindy, Charlie Combs, Chester. B. Hiett and Devaul Schell were elected with Walter Crane the also-ran.

The election for town officers is a biannual affair in Moorefield but this year only 159 votes were cast out of a possible 600.

Two Tucker Countians Get Their American Citizenship

PARSONS, W. Va. — Two residents of Tucker County who came from Germany received their full naturalization papers at the Tucker County Court now in session in Parsons.

Harry Gould, naturalization examiner from Pittsburgh, gave the examinations to the applicants and recommended them favorably for citizenship. One is Joseph Loscar of Davis, a former coal miner who is now employed as a carpenter and a resident of Davis for the past 30 years. The other applicant was a German war bride, Mrs. Roy O. Johnson of Davis. Loscar came to Davis from Germany in 1922. His father, Joseph Loscar, came here in 1914. His wife followed in 1915 and the brothers and sisters came in 1922. His wife came here in 1927 from Yugoslavia and they are the parents of seven children, five daughters and two sons.

Mrs. Johnson is the former Lina Beck of Germany. She and her husband were married in September, 1948 in Germany while he was serving there following World War II. Mrs. Johnson came here to join her husband in December of the same year. They are the parents of a four year old daughter, Margaret Grace. Her husband, Airman, 2/c is serving with the U. S. Air Force in Korea where he has been stationed since December, 1952. Airman Johnson has served for eight years with the armed forces, re-entering after being out of the service for three years. His wife left at midnight Wednesday evening following her oath of citizenship for Walter Reed Hospital where she underwent a major operation yesterday.

Judge Harlan Calhoun administered the Oath of Citizenship to the two applicants and added his personal feeling of pride and well wishes to the two after charging them with their deep responsibility to this country.

Another German woman, Mrs. Alfrieda Price, filed petitions for naturalization on the same day and petitions will be heard sometime after the 30-day period.

Mineral County Cancer Campaign Short Of Goal

$285 More Sought By Next Monday

KEYSER — The Mineral County Cancer Campaign, which has always been conducted here without any general solicitation or house to house calls, has not reached its goal this year.

Dr. Robert Coffman, chairman, announced yesterday that the fund has fallen short of its goal by about $285, and unless this sum is raised by Monday, it will mean the loss of advancement in the detection center work.

The center has planned on increasing its facilities to care for more cancer patients, but unless the amount is secured, many will be unable to be given the services needed.

The Cancer Center here is one of three in this part of the country, and during its operation has taken care of many sufferers.

At no time has the local detection Center conducted a campaign for large sums of money, Dr. Coffman said, and at no time has there been a drive for funds beyond the amount that nominally can be used to carry on its work, but now it is necessary to increase facilities for carrying on the increased work.

The receptacles placed in local stores will be gathered on Monday and it is hoped that the citizens will respond to the call in the next few days.

Davis Double Murder Trial Slated June 22

Boyd Wise Faces Slaying Charges

PARSONS, W. Va.—The trial of Boyd Wise, 45, of Davis, W. Va., indicted December 16 by the Tucker County Grand Jury on two separate charges of murder, was set this week by the Circuit Court for Monday, June 22.

Wise is accused of slaying his sister-in-law, Mrs. Lucille Damiano, 37, and her 55-year-old husband, Antonio, both of Davis, with a hail of 22-caliber bullets as they left a doctor's office in Davis on November 18.

The suspect was arrested four days after the shooting.

Mrs. Damiano died instantly and her husband died early the next day in a Thomas, W. Va. hospital after telling authorities Wise had done the shooting.

Wise has insisted that he does not own a gun and is not guilty of the double murder. There were no witnesses to the shooting.

During the March term of the Circuit Court, Wise entered pleas of not guilty to both counts after repeatedly asking for additional time to make his plea.

During the session, Judge Wayne K. Pritt, acting judge in the absence of Judge Ernest A. See, ruled that enough time had been given the defendant and said if Wise would not enter a plea the court would do it for him.

In a session lasting about two hours, Judge Pritt used a West Virginia Statute to enter pleas of not guilty for Wise. After the court recessed until afternoon on March 6, Wise entered his pleas of not guilty personally while his counsel, W. Del Roy Harner, stood by.

Wise's case will be heard June 22 at the court house in Parsons with Judge Harlan Calhoun, judge of the 22d Judicial Circuit, presiding. He will replace Judge Ernest A. See of Keyser, regular judge of the 21st Judicial Court, who is ill.

Attorney for the state will be Prosecuting Attorney J. Patrick Nichols and David E. Cuppett Sr., former prosecuting attorney, of Thomas. Wise's attorneys will be W. Del Roy Harner, Parsons, James Ansel and H. G. Muntzing, Moorefield.

Fingerprinting as a method of identification has been used in the Far East since early history.

Three Tucker County Towns Elect Officers

M. J. Sponaugle Is Davis Mayor

PARSONS, W. Va.—Citizens of three Tucker County communities, Davis, Hendricks and Hambleton, went to the polls Tuesday to elect officials.

The elections were marked by an unusually heavy vote in Davis and by ties in one council position each in Davis and Hambleton.

The tie was settled in Davis when the two candidates cast lots for the post. No action has been taken to break the tie in Hendricks.

Elected mayor of Davis was M. J. Sponaugle, running as an independent, with 138 votes. Trailing were Stanley Orndorff, Citizens ticket, 128, and Harry Helmick, Peoples Ticket, 49 votes.

Lester Hinkle won the post of recorder with 299 votes, with support from all three tickets.

Winning councilmen were Omer Hinkle, with a total of 273 votes on the three tickets; Robert Raese, with 191 total from the People's and Independent tickets; Brady Harr had 160 votes; Howard Wise had 152 votes. Both men were new candidates for the offices.

Frank Tekavec and Belmont S. Cleaver, incumbent, tied with 141 votes each. Tekavec won the right as councilman by casting a lot and winning.

The only councilmen not elected on the Independent ticket was Norman Phelps, who received 134 votes. Tony Zalatoris, People's ticket, received 67 votes; Gilbert P. Smith, Citizen's ticket received 130; B. S. Cleaver, 141 and H. A. Meyers, the outgoing mayor 128 votes.

Complete but unofficial results follow:

FOR MAYOR

M. J. Sponaugle	138
Stanley Orndorff	128
Harry Helmick	49

FOR RECORDER

Lester Hinkle	299

FOR COUNCIL

Omer Hinkle	273
Robert Raese	191
Brady Harr	160
Howard Wise	152
Frank Tekavec	141
Belmont S. Cleaver	141
Norman Phelps	134
Tony Zalatoris	67
Gilbert P. Smith	130
B. S. Cleaver	141
H. A. Meyers	128

A total of 324 residents of Davis voted Tuesday to make a history of interest in the city election.

Two years ago only 57 residents voted. The Davis council will meet on Wednesday Evening, June 10, when new city officials will receive their oath of office.

J. B. Ambrose was elected mayor of Hendricks Tuesday as 23 residents went to the polls.

Miss Mildred Wilson was named town recorder.

Elected to council seats were Mrs. Ford Fink, Wilbur Plauger, Lark Wilfong and C. W. Harvey.

Tied for the fifth council post were J. A. Butcher, who was seeking reelection, and Thomas B. Hedrick, who received the same number of votes through write-ins.

Town officials have not yet determined who shall fill the post.

Only 23 residents of Hambleton went to the polls to cast their vote for the one party ticket, all of whom were running for re-election.

Clark Reelected Moorefield Mayor Without Contest

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—P. W. Clarke was elected Mayor of Moorefield with 142 complimentary votes in the municipal election Tuesday. Clarke was unopposed for re-election and Mrs. Robert Baker, Recorder, also unopposed, received 147 votes.

Only six names were on the ticket for town council, with five elected. Theodore Burns, Raymond Sindy, Charlie Combs, Chester. B. Hiett and Devaul Schell were elected with Walter Crane the also-ran.

The election for town officers is a biannual affair in Moorefield but this year only 159 votes were cast out of a possible 600.

Mineral County Cancer Campaign Short Of Goal

$285 More Sought By Next Monday

KEYSER — The Mineral County Cancer Campaign, which has always been conducted here without any general solicitation or house to house calls, has not reached its goal this year.

Dr. Robert Coffman, chairman, announced yesterday that the fund has fallen short of its goal by about $285, and unless this sum is raised by Monday, it will mean the loss of advancement in the detection center work.

The center has planned on increasing its facilities to care for more cancer patients, but unless the amount is secured, many will be unable to be given the services needed.

The Cancer Center here is one of three in this part of the country, and during its operation has taken care of many sufferers.

At no time has the local detection Center conducted a campaign for large sums of money, Dr. Coffman said, and at no time has there been a drive for funds beyond the amount that nominally can be used to carry on its work, but now it is necessary to increase facilities for carrying on the increased work.

The receptacles placed in local stores will be gathered on Monday and it is hoped that the citizens will respond to the call in the next few days.

Wanted: Experienced auto mechanic. G.M. Dealer, top wages, ideal working conditions. Please state experience and present job. Write Box 15, Times-News, Frostburg.

Davis Double Murder Trial Slated June 22

Boyd Wise Faces Slaying Charges

PARSONS, W. Va.—The trial of Boyd Wise, 45, of Davis, W. Va., indicted December 16 by the Tucker County Grand Jury on two separate charges of murder, was set this week by the Circuit Court for Monday, June 22.

Wise is accused of slaying his sister-in-law, Mrs. Lucille Damiano, 37, and her 55-year-old husband, Antonio, both of Davis, with a hail of 22-caliber bullets as they left a doctor's office in Davis on November 18.

The suspect was arrested four days after the shooting.

Mrs. Damiano died instantly and her husband died early the next day in a Thomas, W. Va. hospital after telling authorities Wise had done the shooting.

Wise has insisted that he does not own a gun and is not guilty of the double murder. There were no witnesses to the shooting.

During the March term of the Circuit Court, Wise entered pleas of not guilty to both counts after repeatedly asking for additional time to make his plea.

During the session, Judge Wayne K. Pritt, acting judge in the absence of Judge Ernest A. See, ruled that enough time had been given the defendant and said if Wise would not enter a plea the court would do it for him.

In a session lasting about two hours, Judge Pritt used a West Virginia Statute to enter pleas of not guilty for Wise. After the court recessed until afternoon on March 6. Wise entered his pleas of not guilty personally while his counsel, W. Del Roy Harner, stood by.

Wise's case will be heard June 22 at the court house in Parsons with Judge Harlan Calhoun, judge of the 22d Judicial Circuit, presiding. He will replace Judge Ernest A. See of Keyser, regular judge of the 21st Judicial Court, who is ill.

Attorney for the state will be Prosecuting Attorney J. Patrick Nichols and David E. Cuppett Sr., former prosecuting attorney, of Thomas. Wise's attorneys will be W. Del Roy Harner, Parsons, James Ansel and H. G. Muntzing, Moorefield.

Fingerprinting as a method of identification has been used in the Far East since early history.

Wanted: Experienced Auto body man. G. M. Dealer. Top wages, ideal working conditions. Please state experience and present job. Write Box 15, Times-News, Frostburg.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, June 5—(INS)—They're doing up Cameron Hawley's best selling novel, "Executive Suite," handsomely in the way of a cast at MGM.

William Holden, Deborah Kerr, Louis Calhern and Walter Pidgeon are already set for this story of big business—and there are four more top notchers to go.

Bill Holden is so high on doing the business epic that he's postponed a trip to Africa so he'll be among those present when the movie starts in August.

John Houseman is producing and Ernie Lehman, former newspaperman and fiction writer, is preparing the script on this story, which I hear is very exciting and which I want to get around to reading when I can catch my breath.

Ye gods and little fishes! "Phantom Ape" is the title of the next horror-terror film to be made in three-D by Warner Brothers. Andre de Toth, who directed the moneybags "House Of Wax," will direct this chiller. It's suggested by Edgar Allen Poe's "Murder In The Rue Morgue," which of course, is in public domain.

In addition to three-D it will be shot in Warnercolor and the Warner all-media camera will be used.

Warners announced a 22 picture schedule starting soon, so it will go when the studio opens.

One more of our movie friends leaves Hollywood for Broadway. Well, at least David Wayne isn't going to Europe, so he isn't deserting us entirely.

He'll open in New York October 15 in "The Tea House Of The August Moon" for Maurice Evans. Maurice sends me a telegram that David will play the exciting part of Sakini, an oriental interpreter.

It's David's first appearance on Broadway since Hollywood snagged him for "Mister Roberts."

The Evans play was written by John Patrick, who also authored "The Hasty Heart," one of Wayne's biggest hits.

I love the sentiment Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz feel for their home in the San Fernando Valley where they moved right after their marriage.

"You know it's too far to come in each day to the MGM studio," Lucille told me, "while Desi and I are making 'The Long, Long, Trailer,' so we rented the Dwight Taylor house in Beverly Hills. But we are not going to sell the ranch.

"We looked a long time for the right house. I didn't want a swimming pool because of the children, and, of course, we had to have plenty of room, so it was a problem."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: At the Tail O'The Cock in the Valley, Dan Dailey and his blonde ex, Liz Daily, had dinner. They wore riding clothes and apparently had been out for a canter before dining.

Sonja Henie cables from London that many of Europe's royalty, there for the coronation, have been in to see her show. She says there are parties galore and besides working hard she's having fun.

At Plymouth House, Nora Eddington Flynn Haymes and Nicky Hilton, taking up where they left off.

Ann Rutherford, who expected to go on a tour of the orient, can only go as far as Honolulu. She's still a Canadian citizen, so naturally Uncle Sam can't issue her a passport.

The Dennis Days are hosting a party tomorrow night honoring Ann Blyth and Dr. James McNulty, the town's favorite bride and groom.

St. John's Hospital is very grateful to Eddie Cantor for presenting a television set to the psychiatric ward which had none.

Jimmy McHugh is guest of honor at the Los Angeles Press Club tomorrow. The last guest was Walter Winchell.

Shirley Booth has voted against doing Edna Ferber's "So Big" on Broadway next fall, deciding she's not the type for it.

June 30, just a month after the birth of Dorothy McGuire's second child, she's opening at the La Jolla Playhouse in John Van Druten's play, "I Am A Camera."

That's all today. See you Monday.

Who's Minding The Shop?

Business of England dealing with our enemies is older hat than Napolaon's three-cornered skimmer.

It was Naperoo who called the English a nation of shop keepers. So were the French in a different language.

Remember this stack of ignorance in 1940, "England will fight you in the Red Sea if you pay your toll through the Suez Canal?"

And we'll guarantee if there had been a Suez sewer in Nap's time there would have been no Aboukir. Nelson would have been forced to let the French fleet through the canal first.

Rep. Jackson Suggests Bishop Undergo Quiz

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Rep. Jackson (R-Calif), replied today to a demand for a public apology to Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxname of Washington by saying the bishop should submit to a "thorough examination" by the House UnAmerican Activities Committee.

Jackson issued a statement on the action of the 169th session of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church in pledging its support of Bishop Oxnam and asking senators and representatives to urge that Jackson apologize.

The church conference objected to remarks by Jackson in a recent House speech. On that occasion, Jackson said Bishop Oxnam "works for the Lord on Sunday and the Communist fronts the rest of the week."

By Jimminy, sire of the Preakness winner Bold, has been a consistently successful stallion. From his first two crops he has 26 foals, 20 starters, 17 winners of 53 races.

Down in the Valley...

Today was barter day in the big leagues. With last place up for grabs in the National, the Cubs and Pirates made a fast swap that has everybody guessing. Who got the best of what . . . and what difference will it make anyway? That we don't know . . . but one thing we're certain positive of is the good food . . . good drink . . . and good feelin' you get when you're Down In the Valley. There's a lot more to enjoying what you eat and drink besides the food and beverage itself. It takes that extra quality to make mealtime and drinktime really enjoyable. Atmosphere . . . that's the difference. And, believe us, we got it Down In the Valley. No plush, no gilt but brothers . . . plenty comfortable and relaxin'. For a big league evening of real enjoyment come on down . . . you'll like yourself better for doing it!

Down in the Valley...

Today was barter day in the big leagues. With last place up for grabs in the National, the Cubs and Pirates made a fast swap that has everybody guessing. Who got the best of what . . . and what difference will it make anyway? That we don't know . . . but one thing we're certain positive of is the good food . . . good drink . . . and good feelin' you get when you're Down In the Valley. There's a lot more to enjoying what you eat and drink besides the food and beverage itself. It takes that extra quality to make mealtime and drinktime really enjoyable. Atmosphere . . . that's the difference. And, believe us, we got it Down In the Valley. No plush, no gilt but brothers . . . plenty comfortable and relaxin'. For a big league evening of real enjoyment come on down . . . you'll like yourself better for doing it!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

"Why is it that one so rarely hears a truly lovely voice? quizzed my luncheon guest, one of the best-looking bachelors in town. It could have been the high, strident voice of a woman at the next table that inspired his question. Certainly being forced to hear her was hard to bear. She also served as a perfect illustration of my answer to him.

"You just don't notice the lovely ones — only the unlovely. When a woman has a charming voice, you are almost certain to be focusing your attention on her entire personality rather than on her tone," I said. And that's one of the most important reasons why every woman who wants to be liked should see to it that her voice is as lovely as possible! It's one of the most important ways of projecting your most charming self.

Attitude governs Voice

Did you know that your customary frame of mind is a chief contributor to the characteristic sound of your voice? It is. And habitually misdirected thoughts, feelings and attitudes mark the voice most unpleasantly.

For example, flat, treadmill voices are due to and reflect a lack of imagination. The mental images of such a speaker are simply not vivid enough to transmit themselves to the voice in the varied and colorful tones that entrance listeners.

A pessimistic outlook on life produces a sour-puss voice so that other people, having enough trouble of their own, flee the aciduous sound if they can. Harsh, "keep-off" tones are nutured by a defensive attitude, while harsh forced tones are given birth to by persons who are always on the offensive.

Trade Bad for Good

Obviously, the way to rid yourself of repellant vocal qualities is to cultivate more pleasing attitudes. This can only be accomplished by first recognizing disagreeable traits, facing up to them and making a long and strong effort to be done with them. As they leave, their departure will automatically show in your voice.

However, a voice becomes accustomed to the usage given it and may not perfectly respond and adapt to change. In such a fix, a little coaxing is required. All sorts of tempting bait are to be found in our booklet, "Your Most Attractive Voice." Mailing instructions are given below.

An attractive voice is just one of the ingredients of an attractive personality —' but it's the one that bespeaks the others!

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE sonorous voice—one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success—by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness and lack of proper modulation. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

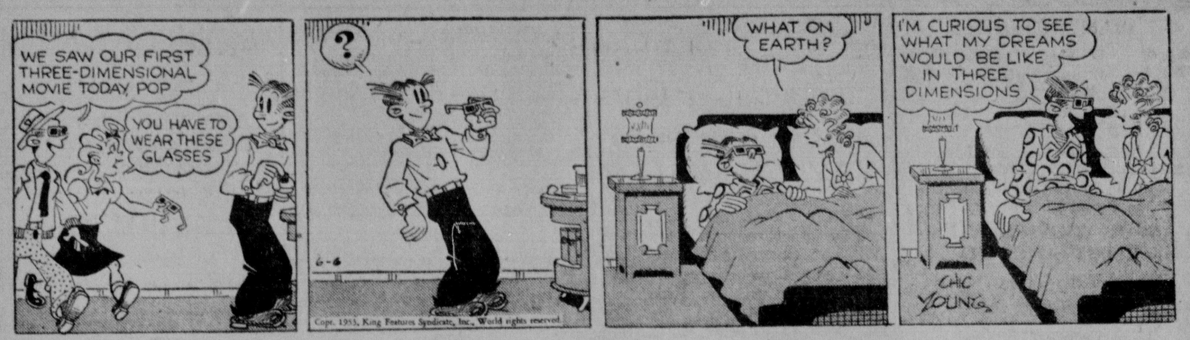

A Cryptogram Quotation

T Y G D H A R Q J U R Q T J T L C J T R, G J H A G J D T W D T G J H A H J T R, W I J L G J H A U M B H O R C R Q J H V — O Y C R - Q J T L R.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: PRESENCE OF MIND AND COURAGE IN DISTRESS ARE MORE THAN ARMIES TO PROCURE SUCCESS—DRYDEN.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

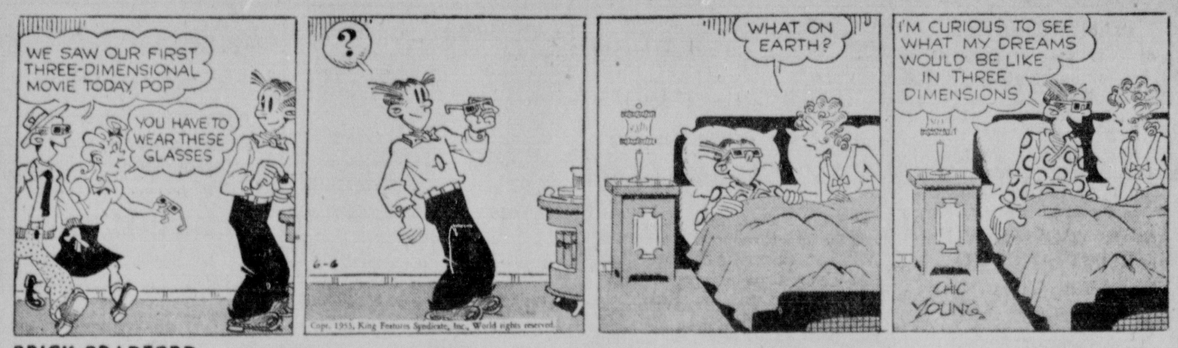

A Cryptogram Quotation

T Y G D H A R Q J U R Q T J T L C J T R, G J H A G J D T W D T G J H A H J T R, W I J L G J H A U M B H O R C R Q J H V — O Y C R - Q J T L R.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: PRESENCE OF MIND AND COURAGE IN DISTRESS ARE MORE THAN ARMIES TO PROCURE SUCCESS—DRYDEN.

Market Erratic With Rails And Oils Scoring Advances

NEW YORK, June 5 (AP)—Selected issues put on a show of strength as the stock market neared the close today, but most shares ended the session with small gains or losses.

The sizable advances were largely in the rails and oils, but gains of a point were recorded in groups as diverse as rubbers and televisions.

The market was quiet most of the day and volume totaled 1,160,000 shares against 1,400,000 yesterday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average rose 30 cents to $106.80. It touched a new low since November in yesterday's sliding market.

Among the lager advances today were Amerada Petroleum, ahead 3½ at 163½, Kern County Land, up 1 at 46¾; Texas Pacific Coal & Oil, ahead 1⅝ at 40¾; Northern Pacific, up 1¼ at 70½; Union Pacific, ahead 1¼ at 105½; Louisville & Nashville, up 1¼ at 65¾; Seaboard Air Line, up 1 at 11½; Goodyear, up 1 at 49½; Admiral Corp., up 1⅛ at 25½; Zenith, ahead 1 at 68½; General Electric, up 1¼ at 71¼; U. S. Gypsum, ahead 2½ at 112, and International Paper, ahead ⅞ at 50⅜.

A handful of stocks turned in losses of around a point, including International Business Machines, Consolidated Edison and Sun Oil. The infrequently-traded American Cyanamid preferred "B" dropped 9⅝ to 121½.

Position Of Treasury

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The position of the Treasury June 3:

Dally Bridge Lesson
by Shepard Barclay

CONFIDENCE IN METHOD

JUST because sound bridge happens to work out disastrously in some particular hand—that is no reason for deciding to abandon the same methods on your next turn. There is the old story of the player who, asked why he didn't try a particular finesse, answered: "Finesse? Not me. I tried that once." The same idea should not upset either your bidding or your play. So long as you know a certain policy to be profitable in the long run, don't abandon it.

	♠ 10 8 5 ♥ None ♦ Q J 10 8 7 6 2 ♣ J 10 2
♠ A K Q J 7 3 ♥ A Q 8 ♦ A K 4 ♣ 7	N W E S	♠ 9 6 4 2 ♥ 10 6 5 2 ♦ 9 5 3 ♣ 8 4
	♠ None ♥ K J 9 7 4 3 ♦ None ♣ A K Q 9 6 5 3

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
2 ♦	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
5 ♣	Pass	6 ♣	Dbl.

West, a great competitive player, whose mind is upon the objective of scoring points rather than just making contracts, felt certain that the 1-Heart bid would be kept open, so made a trap pass on his first turn. When his second chance arrived, South's jump call to 4-Clubs was still more likely to be kept open, so West bided his time again. He felt that his patience was amply rewarded when on his third turn the bid of 6-Clubs arrived, one higher than he expected. He was therefore delighted to double such a juicy morsel.

He opened his sole trump against that, and then was amazed to find himself unable to take a solitary trick. When he covered the heart K and J, they were ruffed in dummy. In the end the only trick for the defense was taken by East's heart 10 over South's 9.

West, an inveterate trap passer, was then asked if this result cured him of using such tactics. "Absolutely no," he responded. "I have earned plenty of points that way, and just one or two disasters won't make me abandon it."

Market Erratic With Rails And Oils Scoring Advances

NEW YORK, June 5 (AP)—Selected issues put on a show of strength as the stock market neared the close today, but most shares ended the session with small gains or losses.

The sizable advances were largely in the rails and oils, but gains of a point were recorded in groups as diverse as rubbers and televisions.

The market was quiet most of the day and volume totaled 1,160,000 shares against 1,400,000 yesterday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average rose 30 cents to $106.80. It touched a new low since November in yesterday's sliding market.

Wall Street sources hesitated to attach much significance to today's rather erratic performance. Some brokers were predicting a market advance once a Korean truce is signed.

Among the lager advances today were Amerada Petroleum, ahead 3½ at 163½, Kern County Land, up 1 at 46¾; Texas Pacific Coal & Oil, ahead 1⅝ at 40¾; Northern Pacific, up 1¼ at 70½; Union Pacific, ahead 1¼ at 105½; Louisville & Nashville, up 1¼ at 65¾; Seaboard Air Line, up 1 at 11½; Goodyear, up 1 at 49½; Admiral Corp., up 1⅛ at 25½; Zenith, ahead 1 at 68½; General Electric, up 1¼ at 71¼; U. S. Gypsum, ahead 2½ at 112, and International Paper, ahead ⅞ at 50⅜.

A handful of stocks turned in losses of around a point, including International Business Machines, Consolidated Edison and Sun Oil. The infrequently-traded American Cyanamid preferred "B" dropped 9⅝ to 121½.

Chicago Board Of Trade

CHICAGO, June 5 (AP)—Grains responded to the Korean news today by selling off at the start, displaying a good deal of calmness as prices rose throughout most of the session, and then developing a fainting spell again shortly before the close.

The upshot of these moves was that the market ended lower.

Daily Bridge Lesson
by Shepard Barclay

CONFIDENCE IN METHOD

JUST because sound bridge happens to work out disastrously in some particular hand—that is no reason for deciding to abandon the same methods on your next turn. There is the old story of the player who, asked why he didn't try a particular finesse, answered: "Finesse? Not me. I tried that once." The same idea should not upset either your bidding or your play. So long as you know a certain policy to be profitable in the long run, don't abandon it.

West, a great competitive player, whose mind is upon the objective of scoring points rather than just making contracts, felt certain that the 1-Heart bid would be kept open, so made a trap pass on his first turn. When his second chance arrived, South's jump call to 4-Clubs was still more likely to be kept open, so West bided his time again. He felt that his patience was amply rewarded when on his third turn the bid of 6-Clubs arrived, one higher than he expected. He was therefore delighted to double such a juicy morsel.

He opened his sole trump against that, and then was amazed to find himself unable to take a solitary trick. When he covered the heart K and J, they were ruffed in dummy. In the end the only trick for the defense was taken by East's heart 10 over South's 9.

West, an inveterate trap passer, was then asked if this result cured him of using such tactics. "Absolutely no," he responded. "I have earned plenty of points that way, and just one or two disasters won't make me abandon it."

College, 4 High Schools Hold Annual Graduations

Teacher College Confers Degrees On 93 Graduates

Wendell D. Allen Principal Speaker

Wendell D. Allen, Baltimore, president of the State Board of Education, delivered the commencement address Friday morning at the 50th annual commencement of Frostburg State Teachers College.

His subject was "The Dignity of the Individual." Allen was introduced by Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., Catonsville, state superintendent of schools and secretary-treasurer of the State Board of Education.

The degree of bachelor of science in education was presented to 88 graduates, and the degree of associate in arts to five graduates. Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of the college, was in charge. A piano certificate was presented to Mary Esther Engle, Frostburg.

The diplomas were awarded by Jerome Frampton Jr., vice president of the State Board of Education, and the presentation of honors was made by Ivan C. Diehl, dean of the college.

Ten honor students had a cumulative average of 2.25 or better, which entitled them to graduate with honors. They were:

William Joseph Faherty, 2.77; Mary Elizabeth Kammauf, 2.69; Chester Franklin See, 2.49; Mary Elizabeth Straw, 2.47; Lois Jean Mackay, 2.44; John Raymond Snyder, 2.43; Phyllis Ann Folk, 2.42; Thomas M. Wagner, 2.38; William Robert Williams, 2.27, and Charles Calvin Kopp, 2.25.

Preceding the exercises in the college auditorium, the speakers, faculty members and graduates marched in a processional from Old Main Building and entered the auditorium to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," played by Miss Eleanor Smith, organist.

The invocation was by Rev. George L. Wehler, pastor of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church.

Receive Top Allegany Awards

These three Allegany High School seniors won top honors at the school's annual commencement last night. They are, left to right, Joan Rice, Mary Linne Stitely and Walter Bosley. Miss Rice and Bosley won the Welcome Home Awards. Miss Rice also won two other prizes. Miss Stitely, also a three-prize winner, got the $50 Camper Club savings bond for highest scholastic honors.

14 Beall High Seniors Obtain Special Honors

Diplomas Presented To Class Of 140

Fourteen outstanding members of the Beall High School graduating class received special honors last night at the school's annual graduation exercises in Frostburg.

Vincent A. Halbert, who is resigning as principal at Beall to take a similar position in Trenton, N. J., announced the award winners.

Moose Prize Winners

William Davis and Patricia Henry were presented the $5 Loyal Order of Moose awards as the best all-around boy and girl in the Beall graduating class of 140 students.

Davis also won the Varsity Club trophy as the best all-around athlete and a trophy from the Fraternal Order of Eagles as one of five outstanding senior athletes. Winner of the watch from the Eagles was Paul Thompson. He was selected on the basis of athletic ability, conduct in and out of school, general all-around behavior, scholarship and contribution to athletics. Others beside Davis to win Eagles' trophies were Alan LaPorta, William Murray and Francis Poland.

Scholastic Winner

Shirley Michaels were awarded the Jeffries Brothers Medal for having the highest scholastic average for four years. Shirley Miller won two awards. She was presented the Activity Medal for having the highest number of "B" Club points and $25 government bond from the Lions Club as the student who has made the most outstanding service to the school in music.

Oldtown High Graduates 20 Seniors

Erma Rawlings Gets Citizenship Prizes

Erma Rawlings was announced as the winner of the citizenship medal last night at the annual commencement exercises of Oldtown High School.

The awards were presented by Principal George F. Reiter. For receiving the citizenship medal Miss Rawlings also was awarded a cash prize donated by the Cresap Society.

Mary Ott and Shirley Crane also were awarded two prizes each for outstanding activities at Oldtown. Miss Ott won the scholarship and student council prizes. Miss Crane got the dramatics and attendance prizes, the last being cash.

Other prize winners were Wilda Scott, home economics; Rebecca Smith, music; Robert Hartsock, boys' athletics; Nellie Ankeney, girls' athletics.

Rev. O. Afton Linger, pastor of First Baptist Church in Cumberland, delivered the principal address to the 20 graduates, their parents and friends.

Diplomas were presented by W. Earle Cobey, newly-appointed member of the Allegany County Board of Education.

B&O Trains Back On Schedule

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad passenger service resumed normal schedules yesterday after work crews finished clearing the main line near Linaburg, where 26 coal cars derailed and damaged the tracks Thursday.

The railroad said Number 1 track (westbound) was cleared by 7:55 a. m. (EST) yesterday. Number 2 (eastbound) was open at 10:45 a. m., and full service was restored with the clearing of Number 3 track, the traffic line, at 2:30 p. m.

A 100-yard section of all three tracks was torn out when the freight cars derailed early Thursday afternoon. The site is 13 miles west of Hancock and 42 miles from Cumberland. B&O trains used the Western Maryland Railway tracks between North Branch and Cherry Run while wreckage was being cleared away.

Will Build Home

Dr. Howard B. Wood, the Dingle, secured a permit yesterday to build a 60 by 27 foot, one story home on Lots 27, 28 and part of 29, Camden Avenue. Cost of the brick veneer home was estimated at $13,000.

Warren Bosley, Joan Rice Win Top Alco Prizes

Mary Linne Stitely Gets Three Awards

Welcome Home Awards were presented last night to Joan Rice and Walter Bosley at Allegany High School's 65th annual commencement in the school auditorium.

These prizes are given to the outstanding girl and boy students in the senior class as selected by their classmates. All phases of school life are taken into consideration. The award key for Miss Rice was presented by the Liberty Trust Company. Bosley's award came from the Second National Bank.

Win Three Prizes

Miss Rice and Mary Linne Stitely both won three awards during the commencement ceremonies. Besides the Welcome Home Award Miss Rice also got the Franklin C. Ankeney Memorial Award for highest achievement in mathematics and a $25 bond from the Camper Club for having the second highest scholastic record.

A $50 savings bond from the Camper Club went to Miss Stitely for having the highest scholastic honors. She also obtained the Bausch and Lomb Medal for highest achievement in science for four years and the Imperial Order of Red Men prize of $10 for the highest scholastic record in the senior year.

Raymond O. McCullough, ending his first year as principal at Allegany, announced the award winners. He presented the Babst Award for superiority in athletic leadership to James Hoffman, a junior.

Other Awards

Other award winners:

Davisson Ayers, Music and Arts Club Award; Dorothy Shanholtz, $5 Rosenbaum prize for highest achievement in commercial subjects; Marjorie Hutcheson, $25 Mary Louise Andrews Memorial Award for vocal music; Barbara Nicholls, Allegany High School Journalism Department Award; Anne Llewellyn, $10 Tri-Hi-Y Award for best attendance; Mildred McDonald, S. T. Little Jewelry Company Award for excellence in senior English; Myrna Luman, $5 Art Club Award; Hayden Dawson, American Legion Auxiliary Memorial Medal for Americanism as shown in American History; Adele Williams, Allegany History Department Medal, and Edward Andrews, Arion Foundation Medal presented by the Cumberland Civic Symphony Orchestra for excellence in instrumental music.

The principal address was given by Miss Anne Guthrie, world traveler, educator and lecturer. Douglas Houck presented the class oration.

Kenneth R. Malcolm, president of the Allegany County Board of Education, handed diplomas to 185 senior boys and girls. Among them were 67 in academic courses, 47 in commercial course and 71 in general course.

Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, gave the invocation and benediction.

Truck Catches Fire

South End firemen were called to South Street and Franks Lane at 3:30 p. m. yesterday when a short-circuit in electrical wiring caused a panel truck to ignite. The driver, however, doused the flames with a bucket of water just before firemen arrived.

Police Push Jewel Theft Investigation

Detectives Check Several Leads

City detectives last night were checking several possible leads in an effort to catch up with a bold thief who tossed two bricks through a display window at Marple's Jewelry Store, 234 North Centre Street, and scooped up $3,000 worth of jewelry early Thursday.

First, a neighbor gave police a description of a man he saw running away from the scene after the window was smashed at about 4:30 a. m.

The neighbor said the man, who appeared to be young, ran up an alley across North Centre Street from the store, turned left on Hay Street toward Knox, and disappeared.

A thorough search of the area failed to disclose any trace of the missing jewelry or of the boxes in which it had been displayed.

Early yesterday, a Broadway Circle woman told officers she had seen two men drive up to the end of Fort Hill Avenue, get out and start to conceal something. The men apparently changed their minds and got back into the car.

Later, the woman found an empty jewelry box where the car had been parked. Officers said yesterday no definite tie-in had so far been established between the box and the missing merchandise.

Police also were investigating a report that a man had offered to sell some jewelry at an area restaurant early yesterday.

Detectives also contacted officials and students of at least one local school in search of information on the theft.

Stolen in the burglary were nine sets of diamond wedding rings, a 21-jewel Bulova Ambassador wrist watch valued at $57.50, a 21-jewel Bulova President wrist watch worth $49.50, and several items of costume jewelry.

Lee A. Marple, who with his wife, Helen, operates the store, said the total value was around $3,000 and that the loss was not covered by insurance.

Sunday School Training Course Is Planned Here

Ministerial Groups To Sponsor Classes

Rev. Arthur Scrogum, chairman of the Cumberland Ministerial Association's training school committee, announced yesterday that the 8th annual Standard Leadership Training School for Sunday School teachers and leaders will be held here September 27 through October 2.

The school will be sponsored jointly by the Cumberland Ministerial Association, the Methodist Ministerial Association and the South Cumberland Ministerial Association.

The classes to be offered during the 1953 course are "The Prophets and Their Message", by Rev. Howard Amoss; "Teaching Youth", by M. H. Burgess; "Work of the Junior Department", by Mrs. O'Neal Johnson, and "Work of the Kindergarten Department", instructor to be supplied.

Sessions will get underway on Sunday afternoon and continue Monday through Friday, according to Rev. Mr. Scrogum.

All teachers in Sunday Schools of the community and surrounding areas are being urged to enroll for the training. A registration fee will be assessed to help cover expenses.

Officials said the school is interdenominational and will provide opportunity for rich fellowship and the sharing of mutual experience.

Lawyers Argue Land Dispute

Opposing attorneys presented their closing arguments in a dispute over two tracts of land near Rawlings to Associate Judge George Henderson in Allegany County Circuit Court Thursday while a group of Allegany High School junior American history students sat in the jury box.

Judge Henderson announced after hearing the arguments that he would immediately check the authorities on the legal questions presented and would have a judgment as soon as possible.

The suit was brought by Mrs. Ada B. Collins, through Attorney William R. Geppert, against William R. Darr, the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Keyser, and the State Roads Commission. Darr purchased the property in question some years ago. The Keyser bank hold a $5,200 mortgage on the property and the State Roads Commission has bought part of the property for its improvements along McMullen Highway.

Geppert, James Alfred Aviret, representing Darr and the bank, and F. A. Puderbaugh, attorney for the commission, presented arguments to Judge Henderson. Miss Murray, who had brought some of her students to the Court House May 25 to hear evidence in the case, returned yesterday with other students to hear the closing arguments.

Young Veteran Dies In Blaze As Wife Fails In Rescue Attempt

Harold Ray Clark Victim Of Fire In Bedford County

Children Saved, But Home Burns

A frantic young mother watched her husband perish in a fire which destroyed their new home on a Bedford County, Pa., farm at midnight Thursday.

Harold Ray Clark, 24-year-old Air Force veteran and native of Cumberland, died when his home eight miles south of Everett, Pa., burned to the ground.

Clark's wife, Mrs. Inez (Breeten) Clark, her 11-year-old son James, and Clark's father, Cecil Clark, all sustained minor burns in the sudden blaze.

The fire broke out just after 11:45 p. m. when young Clark poured kerosene from a five-gallon can into a fire in a kitchen cookstove. His father was asleep on a couch in the same room.

Flames suddenly leaped from the stove, enveloping Harold Clark and setting fire to the furnishings in the room. Clark's father, awakened when burning kerosene splashed over him, dash outside without knowing his son had been overcome by flames.

Wife Tried To Reach Him

Clark's wife, who had been sitting with other members of the family in an adjoining room, tried to fight her way to the side of her unconscious husband, but was forced to retreat when the kerosene can exploded.

Young Mrs. Clark and Harold's mother, Mrs. Alma (O'Neal) Clark, carried the young couple's two-month-old daughter Rena Rance to safety and hurried young Clark's stepsons, James and Jacob, 14, outside.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jay and their small son, and Harold's sister, Miss Phyllis Ann Clark, a Bedford telephone operator, also escaped as flames quickly enveloped the first floor of the two-story frame house.

Volunteer firemen from Breezewood, five miles to the north, arrived at the scene within a few minutes, but were unable to save the home. The firemen used up their entire water supply but were unable to find a stream or other source of water in the isolated area.

Charred Body Found

Clark's charred body was recovered from the smoldering ruins of the home yesterday morning by a search party led by Bedford County Coroner Vernon B. Geisel of Fishertown.

Relatives said Clark and his family had recently moved into the home to operate a farm which had formerly been occupied by an uncle who died several weeks ago.

Other members of the family had gathered at the home Thursday to help prepare a newly-butchered beef for the Clarks' deep-freeze.

Clark was born in Cumberland July 3, 1928. He had been an aircraft mechanic in the Air Force since shortly after his enlistment August 11, 1950. He was discharged from the Air Force in Texas just a month ago yesterday, on May 5.

The body is at the Conner Funeral Home in Everett, Pa. A funeral service will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Monday in Union Memorial Church, near Menchtown, Bedford County, by Rev. Jesse Kauffman, with burial in the church cemetery. Military rites will be accorded by members of Everett Post 8, American Legion.

No Replacement For Burlington Principal Named

The Mineral County (W. Va.) Board of Education met in Keyser Thursday night, but did not appoint a successor to Miss Mirnie Judy, former principal of Burlington Elementary School.

The post has been vacant since Miss Judy resigned a few weeks ago and asked that she be transferred to another school.

No appointments for teachers with emergency certificates were made at the meeting, but Superintendent of Schools H. L. Idleman said the jobs would be handed out at the August 7 meeting.

The resignation of Miss Alice Humphreys as physical education instructor in Ridgeley schools was accepted by the board. Miss Humphreys left her position to become an airline hostess.

Purchase of a school bus at a cost of $5,131.11 also was ordered.

State Workers' Fire Training Meeting Ends

Herrington Manor Scene Of Action

Some 110 full-time employes of the State Department of Forests and Parks have completed a three-day fire training meeting at Herrington Manor in Garrett County.

District Forester William H. Johnson said the training stressed the planning and organization necessary in fighting a major forest fire which may continue for several days. They planned the fighting of a mock fire on White's Knob in Swallow Falls State Forest in the course of their training.

Heading the state employes at the session were Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the State Department of Forests and Parks, and State Forester H. C. Buckingham.

Carl McNasser, an inspector for the U .S. Forest Service from the Philadelphia regional office, was an observer at the training program.

"The training in fire control organization and technique given and taken by representatives of Maryland's Forests and Parks Department is insurance for protection of this state's timber, water, wildlife and recreation resources," McNasser said in commenting upon the program.

"It is only when conservation is looked upon as permitting use without abuse of our natural resources that the fullest development of a state or our nation can be realized. Forest fire organizations are aimed at the broader idea of maintaining and raising our standard of living through wise use of the resources which are placed at our disposal to permanently enjoy or destroy. Don't let forest fires wreck our way of life," he concluded.

While at the training meeting the employes presented gifts to three of their fellow workers who have been in the department at least 25 years. They were Buckingham, given a casting rod and reel; David O. Prince, supervisor of roadside trees, saltwater rod and reel, and Karl E. Pfeiffer, assistant director, luggage and a smoking kit.

4 Weekend Graduations Scheduled

Four weekend commencements tonight and tomorrow will ring down the curtain on high school graduation activity in Allegany County.

Flintstone High School will use its still unfinished new vocational agriculture shop for its commencement for 35 seniors—22 of them boys—at 8:15 o'clock tonight.

Next the group will hear a report of the nominating committee read by Dr. John L. Dunkle, chairman. Election of Council officers will be held with Roy W. Eves as temporary chairman.

Following Urffer's address the meeting will conclude with a vesper song.

National Guard Promotes Seven

Local National Guard officers yesterday announced the promoters of seven area men and enlistment of four new members to the local units.

Three members of C. Company were given promotions. They are Sfc. Norris B. Jones, Carpenters Addition, Ridgeley, to Master Sergeant; Col. James L. Humbertson, 231 Independence Street, promoted to Sergeant, and Cpl. Raymond R. Osbourne, 311 Grand Avenue, to Sergeant.

Frostburg's D Company reported four members promoted. They are Sgt. John A. Woods, Lonaconing, to Sergeant First Class; Cpl. Alex M. Smith, Lonaconing, to Sergeant First Class; Cpl. Alex M. Smith, Lonaconing, to Sergeant; Cpl. William E. Williams, Frostburg, to Sergeant, and Pfc. Charles R. Muletz, Frostburg, to Corporal.

Four men enlisted in C Company this week. They are Pvt. Daniel J. Roby, 235 Independence Street; Cpl. Joseph W. Conner, 22 Central Avenue; Pvt. John F. Redhead, 301 Massachusetts Avenue, and Pvt. Billy E. Davis, 633 Elm Street.

Officers said young men planning to enlist in the Maryland National Guard and wish to attend summer encampment this year, must enlist no later than June 10.

Ridgeley Recount Confirms Bidinger's Three Vote Lead

A recount requested by the unsuccessful mayoral candidate in Ridgeley's municipal election failed to change the results of the biennial poll held Tuesday night.

The recount was asked by Charles H. Fryer, who lost the contest by three votes, polling 257 ballots to 260 cast for William D. Bidinger.

The recount was made by the election committee according to Robert F. Edenhart, town recorder.

City To Step Up Inspection Program At Swimming Pool

The city will step up its testing program this summer to make sure that the water in the Constitution Park swimming pool is always safe.

Robert R. Golden, superintendent of the park, will be general supervisor of the program.

He will make daily inspections of the filtering system in the pool, and will check the acidity and chlorine residual of the water several times a day.

And personnel of the city Filtration Plant will make daily tests of the water to check on the bacterial content.

Regular tests are conducted by the Health Department on this and all other swimming pools of the county.

William J. Edwards, water commissioner, explained that the city water is pure when it reaches the pool, but that oxydation and evaporation cause a gradual loss of chlorine.

The chlorinator is tied in with modern filters which remove all sediment from the water.

In the mornings, when the pool is not being used, the filters are stopped occasionally so that workers can use vacuum sweepers to remove larger debris from the bottom of the pool, officials said.

The whole program, according to Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, is to make the water in the pool "the cleanest water in town."

College, 4 High Schools Hold Annual Graduations

Teacher College Confers Degrees On 93 Graduates

Wendell D. Allen Principal Speaker

Wendell D. Allen, Baltimore, president of the State Board of Education, delivered the commencement address Friday morning at the 50th annual commencement of Frostburg State Teachers College.

His subject was "The Dignity of the Individual." Allen was introduced by Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., Catonsville, state superintendent of schools and secretary-treasurer of the State Board of Education.

The degree of bachelor of science in education was presented to 88 graduates, and the degree of associate in arts to five graduates. Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of the college, was in charge. A piano certificate was presented to Mary Esther Engle, Frostburg.

The diplomas were awarded by Jerome Frampton Jr., vice president of the State Board of Education, and the presentation of honors was made by Ivan C. Diehl, dean of the college.

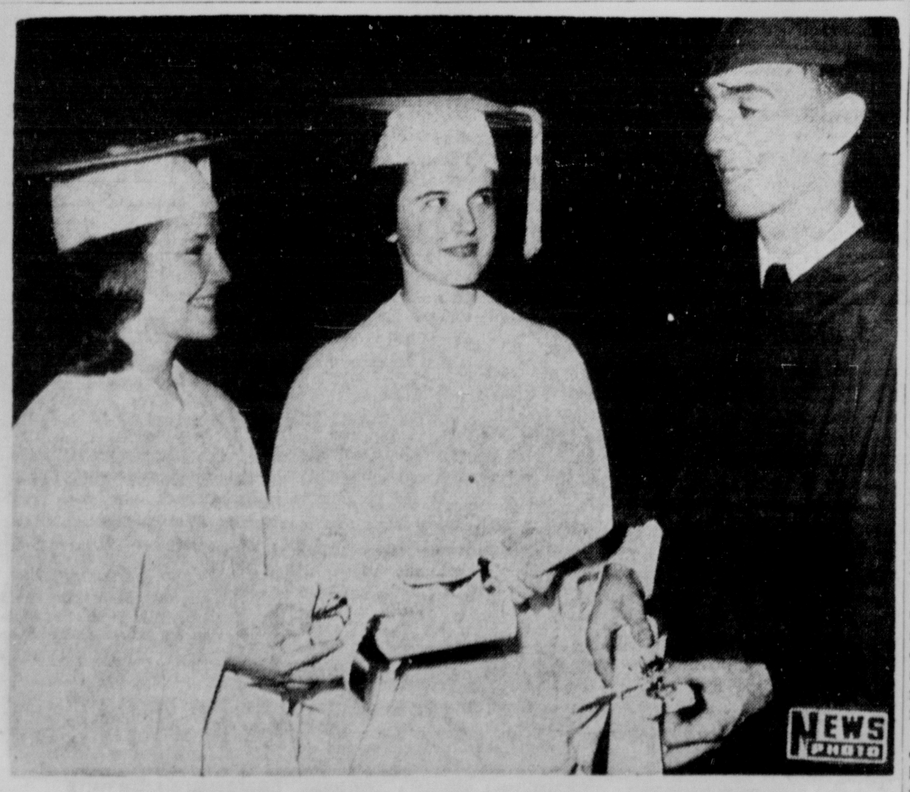

Ten honor students had a cumulative average of 2.25 or better, which entitled them to graduate with honors. They were:

William Joseph Faherty, 2.77; Mary Elizabeth Kammauf, 2.69; Chester Franklin See, 2.49; Mary Elizabeth Straw, 2.47; Lois Jean Mackay, 2.44; John Raymond Snyder, 2.43; Phyllis Ann Folk, 2.42; Thomas M. Wagner, 2.38; William Robert Williams, 2.27, and Charles Calvin Kopp, 2.25.

Preceding the exercises in the college auditorium, the speakers, faculty members and graduates marched in a processional from Old Main Building and entered the auditorium to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," played by Miss Eleanor Smith, organist.

The invocation was by Rev. George L. Wehler, pastor of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church.

Sunday School Training Course Is Planned Here

Ministerial Groups To Sponsor Classes

Rev. Arthur Scrogum, chairman of the Cumberland Ministerial Association's training school committee, announced yesterday that the 8th annual Standard Leadership Training School for Sunday School teachers and leaders will be held here September 27 through October 2.

The school will be sponsored jointly by the Cumberland Ministerial Association, the Methodist Ministerial Association and the South Cumberland Ministerial Association.

The classes to be offered during the 1953 course are "The Prophets and Their Message", by Rev. Howard Amoss; "Teaching Youth", by M. H. Burgess; "Work of the Junior Department", by Mrs. O'Neal Johnson, and "Work of the Kindergarten Department", instructor to be supplied.

Sessions will get underway on Sunday afternoon and continue Monday through Friday, according to Rev. Mr. Scrogum.

All teachers in Sunday Schools of the community and surrounding areas are being urged to enroll for the training. A registration fee will be assessed to help cover expenses.

Officials said the school is interdenominational and will provide opportunity for rich fellowship and the sharing of mutual experience.

Lawyers Argue Land Dispute

Opposing attorneys presented their closing arguments in a dispute over two tracts of land near Rawlings to Associate Judge George Henderson in Allegany County Circuit Court Thursday while a group of Allegany High School junior American history students sat in the jury box.

Judge Henderson announced after hearing the arguments that he would immediately check the authorities on the legal questions presented and would have a judgment as soon as possible.

The suit was brought by Mrs. Ada B. Collins, through Attorney William R. Geppert, against William R. Darr, the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Keyser, and the State Roads Commission. Darr purchased the property in question some years ago. The Keyser bank hold a $5,200 mortgage on the property and the State Roads Commission has bought part of the property for its improvements along McMullen Highway.

Geppert, James Alfred Avirett, representing Darr and the bank, and F. A. Puderbaugh, attorney for the commission, presented arguments to Judge Henderson. Miss Murray, who had brought some of her students to the Court House May 25 to hear evidence in the case, returned yesterday with other students to hear the closing arguments.

Young Veteran Dies In Blaze As Wife Fails In Rescue Attempt

Harold Ray Clark Victim Of Fire In Bedford County

Children Saved, But Home Burns

A frantic young mother watched her husband perish in a fire which destroyed their new home on a Bedford County, Pa., farm at midnight Thursday.

Harold Ray Clark, 24-year-old Air Force veteran and native of Cumberland, died when his home eight miles south of Everett, Pa., burned to the ground.

Clark's wife, Mrs. Inez (Breeten) Clark, her 11-year-old son James, and Clark's father, Cecil Clark, all sustained minor burns in the sudden blaze.

The fire broke out just after 11:45 p. m. when young Clark poured kerosene from a five-gallon can into a fire in a kitchen cookstove. His father was asleep on a couch in the same room.

Flames suddenly leaped from the stove, enveloping Harold Clark and setting fire to the furnishings in the room. Clark's father, awakened when burning kerosene splashed over him, dash outside without knowing his son had been overcome by flames.

Wife Tried To Reach Him

Clark's wife, who had been sitting with other members of the family in an adjoining room, tried to fight her way to the side of her unconscious husband, but was forced to retreat when the kerosene can exploded.

Young Mrs. Clark and Harold's mother, Mrs. Alma (O'Neal) Clark, carried the young couple's two-month-old daughter Rena Rance to safety and hurried young Clark's stepsons, James and Jacob, 14, outside.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jay and their small son, and Harold's sister, Miss Phyllis Ann Clark, a Bedford telephone operator, also escaped as flames quickly enveloped the first floor of the two-story frame house.

Volunteer firemen from Breezewood, five miles to the north, arrived at the scene within a few minutes, but were unable to save the home. The firemen used up their entire water supply but were unable to find a stream or other source of water in the isolated area.

Charred Body Found

Clark's charred body was recovered from the smoldering ruins of the home yesterday morning by a search party led by Bedford County Coroner Vernon B. Geisel of Fishertown.

Relatives said Clark and his family had recently moved into the home to operate a farm which had formerly been occupied by an uncle who died several weeks ago.

Other members of the family had gathered at the home Thursday to help prepare a newly-butchered beef for the Clarks' deep-freeze.

Clark was born in Cumberland July 3, 1928. He had been an aircraft mechanic in the Air Force since shortly after his enlistment August 11, 1950. He was discharged from the Air Force in Texas just a month ago yesterday, on May 5.

The body is at the Conner Funeral Home in Everett, Pa. A funeral service will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Monday in Union Memorial Church, near Menchtown, Bedford County, by Rev. Jesse Kauffman, with burial in the church cemetery. Military rites will be accorded by members of Everett Post 8, American Legion.

No Replacement For Burlington Principal Named

The Mineral County (W. Va.) Board of Education met in Keyser Thursday night, but did not appoint a successor to Miss Mirnie Judy, former principal of Burlington Elementary School.

The post has been vacant since Miss Judy resigned a few weeks ago and asked that she be transferred to another school.

No appointments for teachers with emergency certificates were made at the meeting, but Superintendent of Schools H. L. Idleman said the jobs would be handed out at the August 7 meeting.

The resignation of Miss Alice Humphreys as physical education instructor in Ridgeley schools was accepted by the board. Miss Humphreys left her position to become an airline hostess.

Purchase of a school bus at a cost of $5,131.11 also was ordered.

State Workers' Fire Training Meeting Ends

Herrington Manor Scene Of Action

Some 110 full-time employes of the State Department of Forests and Parks have completed a three-day fire training meeting at Herrington Manor in Garrett County.

District Forester William H. Johnson said the training stressed the planning and organization necessary in fighting a major forest fire which may continue for several days. They planned the fighting of a mock fire on White's Knob in Swallow Falls State Forest in the course of their training.

Heading the state employes at the session were Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the State Department of Forests and Parks, and State Forester H. C. Buckingham.

Carl McNasser, an inspector for the U .S. Forest Service from the Philadelphia regional office, was an observer at the training program.

"The training in fire control organization and technique given and taken by representatives of Maryland's Forests and Parks Department is insurance for protection of this state's timber, water, wildlife and recreation resources," McNasser said in commenting upon the program.

"It is only when conservation is looked upon as permitting use without abuse of our natural resources that the fullest development of a state or our nation can be realized. Forest fire organizations are aimed at the broader idea of maintaining and raising our standard of living through wise use of the resources which are placed at our disposal to permanently enjoy or destroy. Don't let forest fires wreck our way of life," he concluded.

While at the training meeting the employes presented gifts to three of their fellow workers who have been in the department at least 25 years. They were Buckingham, given a casting rod and reel; David O. Prince, supervisor of roadside trees, saltwater rod and reel, and Karl E. Pfeiffer, assistant director, luggage and a smoking kit.

4 Weekend Graduations Scheduled

Four weekend commencements tonight and tomorrow will ring down the curtain on high school graduation activity in Allegany County.

Flintstone High School will use its still unfinished new vocational agriculture shop for its commencement for 35 seniors—22 of them boys—at 8:15 o'clock tonight.

Rev. W. Randolph Keefe, pastor of Grace Baptist Church here, will deliver the commencement address. Two students also will give talks. They are Vianna Smith, valedictorian, and Clifford Hartley, salutatorian.

Music for the graduation will be directed by Miss Jeroma Terranova.

Girls' Central Catholic High School will graduate 15 girls in a commencement which will take place during the noon mass tomorrow at St. Patrick's Church. Rev. Lawrence J. Kilkenny, pastor of St. Patrick's will address the graduates.

Rev. Brother Frederick Leo, F.S.C., director of the Philadelphia Protectory for Boys, Phoenixville, Pa., will address 40 seniors of LaSalle Institute in ceremonies starting at 7 p. m. Sunday in Carroll Hall. Brother Daniel Hilary, F.S.C., principal of LaSalle, will award 17 senior prizes and seven underclass prizes.

St. Peter's High School in Westernport will hold its commencement during the 10:30 a. m. mass Sunday at St. Peter's Catholic Church there. Rev. George Pugh, assistant pastor, will deliver the address. Rt. Rev. Msgr. A. Scarpati, pastor, will give diplomas to the eight seniors.

Ridgeley Recount Confirms Bidinger's Three Vote Lead

A recount requested by the unsuccessful mayoral candidate in Ridgeley's municipal election failed to change the results of the biennial poll held Tuesday night.

The recount was asked by Charles H. Fryer, who lost the contest by three votes, polling 257 ballots to 260 cast for William D. Bidinger.

The recount was made by the election committee according to Robert F. Edenhart, town recorder.

City To Step Up Inspection Program At Swimming Pool

The city will step up its testing program this summer to make sure that the water in the Constitution Park swimming pool is always safe.

Robert R. Golden, superintendent of the park, will be general supervisor of the program.

He will make daily inspections of the filtering system in the pool, and will check the acidity and chlorine residual of the water several times a day.

And personnel of the city Filtration Plant will make daily tests of the water to check on the bacterial content.

Regular tests are conducted by the Health Department on this and all other swimming pools of the county.

William J. Edwards, water commissioner, explained that the city water is pure when it reaches the pool, but that oxydation and evaporation cause a gradual loss of chlorine.

To supplement this loss, the pool is supplied with a chlorinating machine which restores the amount of chlorine needed to make the water perfectly safe.

The chlorinator is tied in with modern filters which remove all sediment from the water.

In the mornings, when the pool is not being used, the filters are stopped occasionally so that workers can use vacuum sweepers to remove larger debris from the bottom of the pool, officials said.

The whole program, according to Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, is to make the water in the pool "the cleanest water in town."
